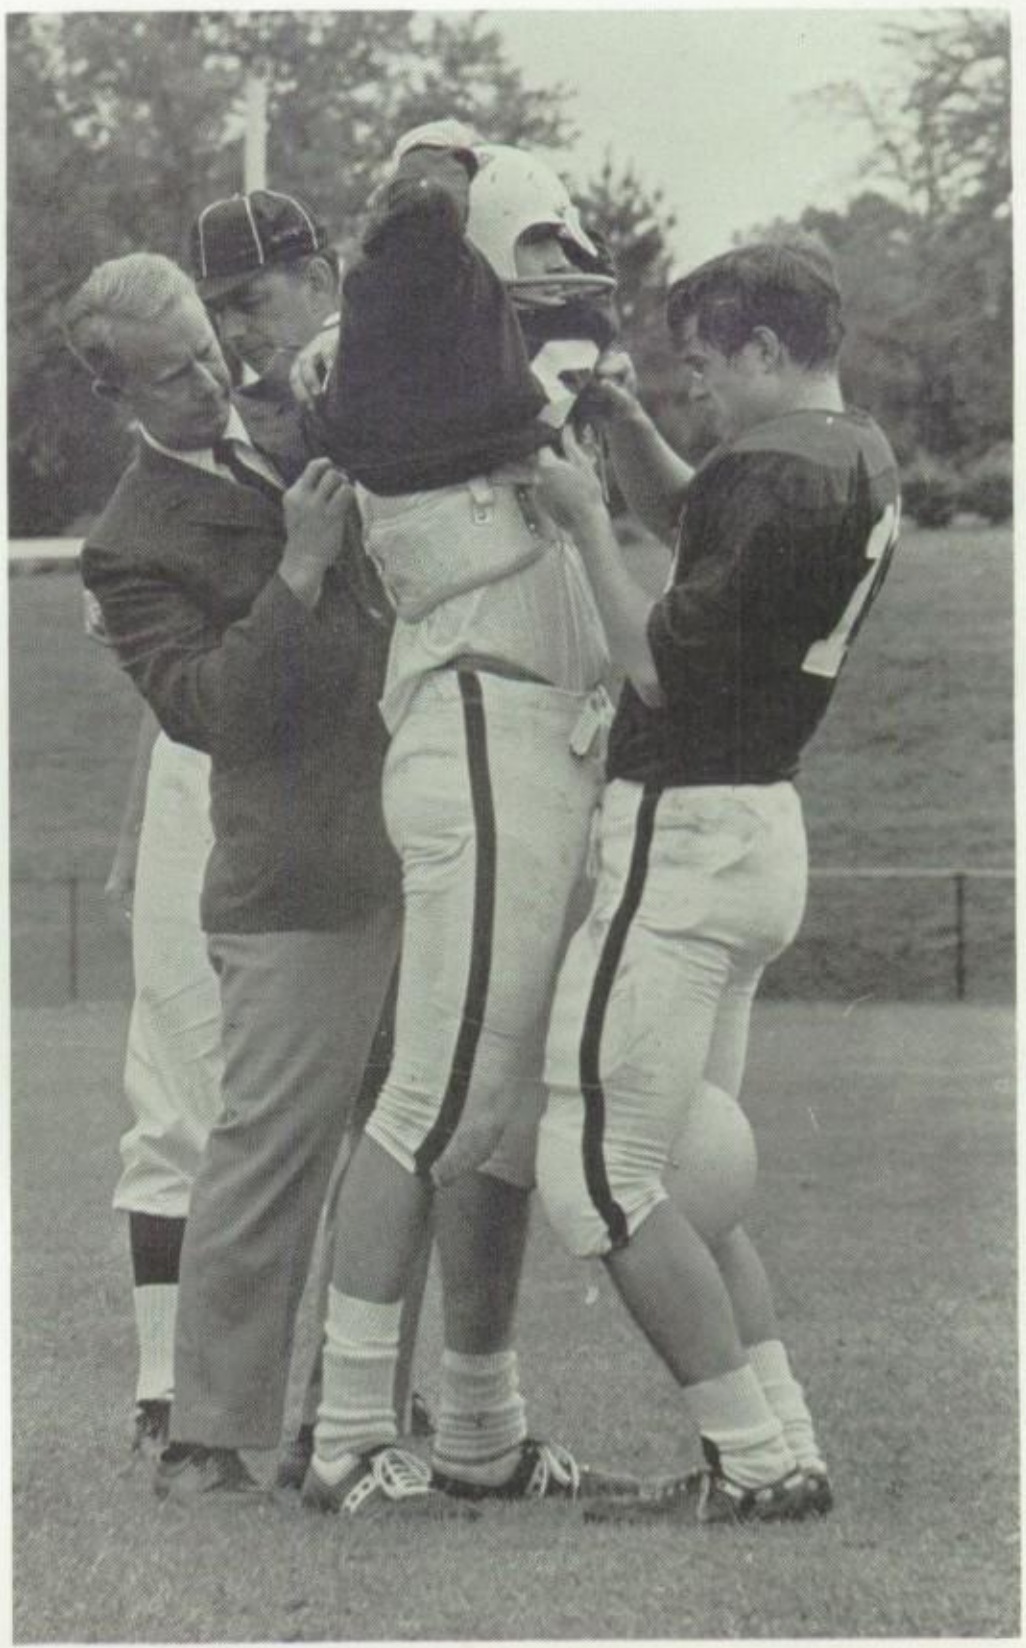
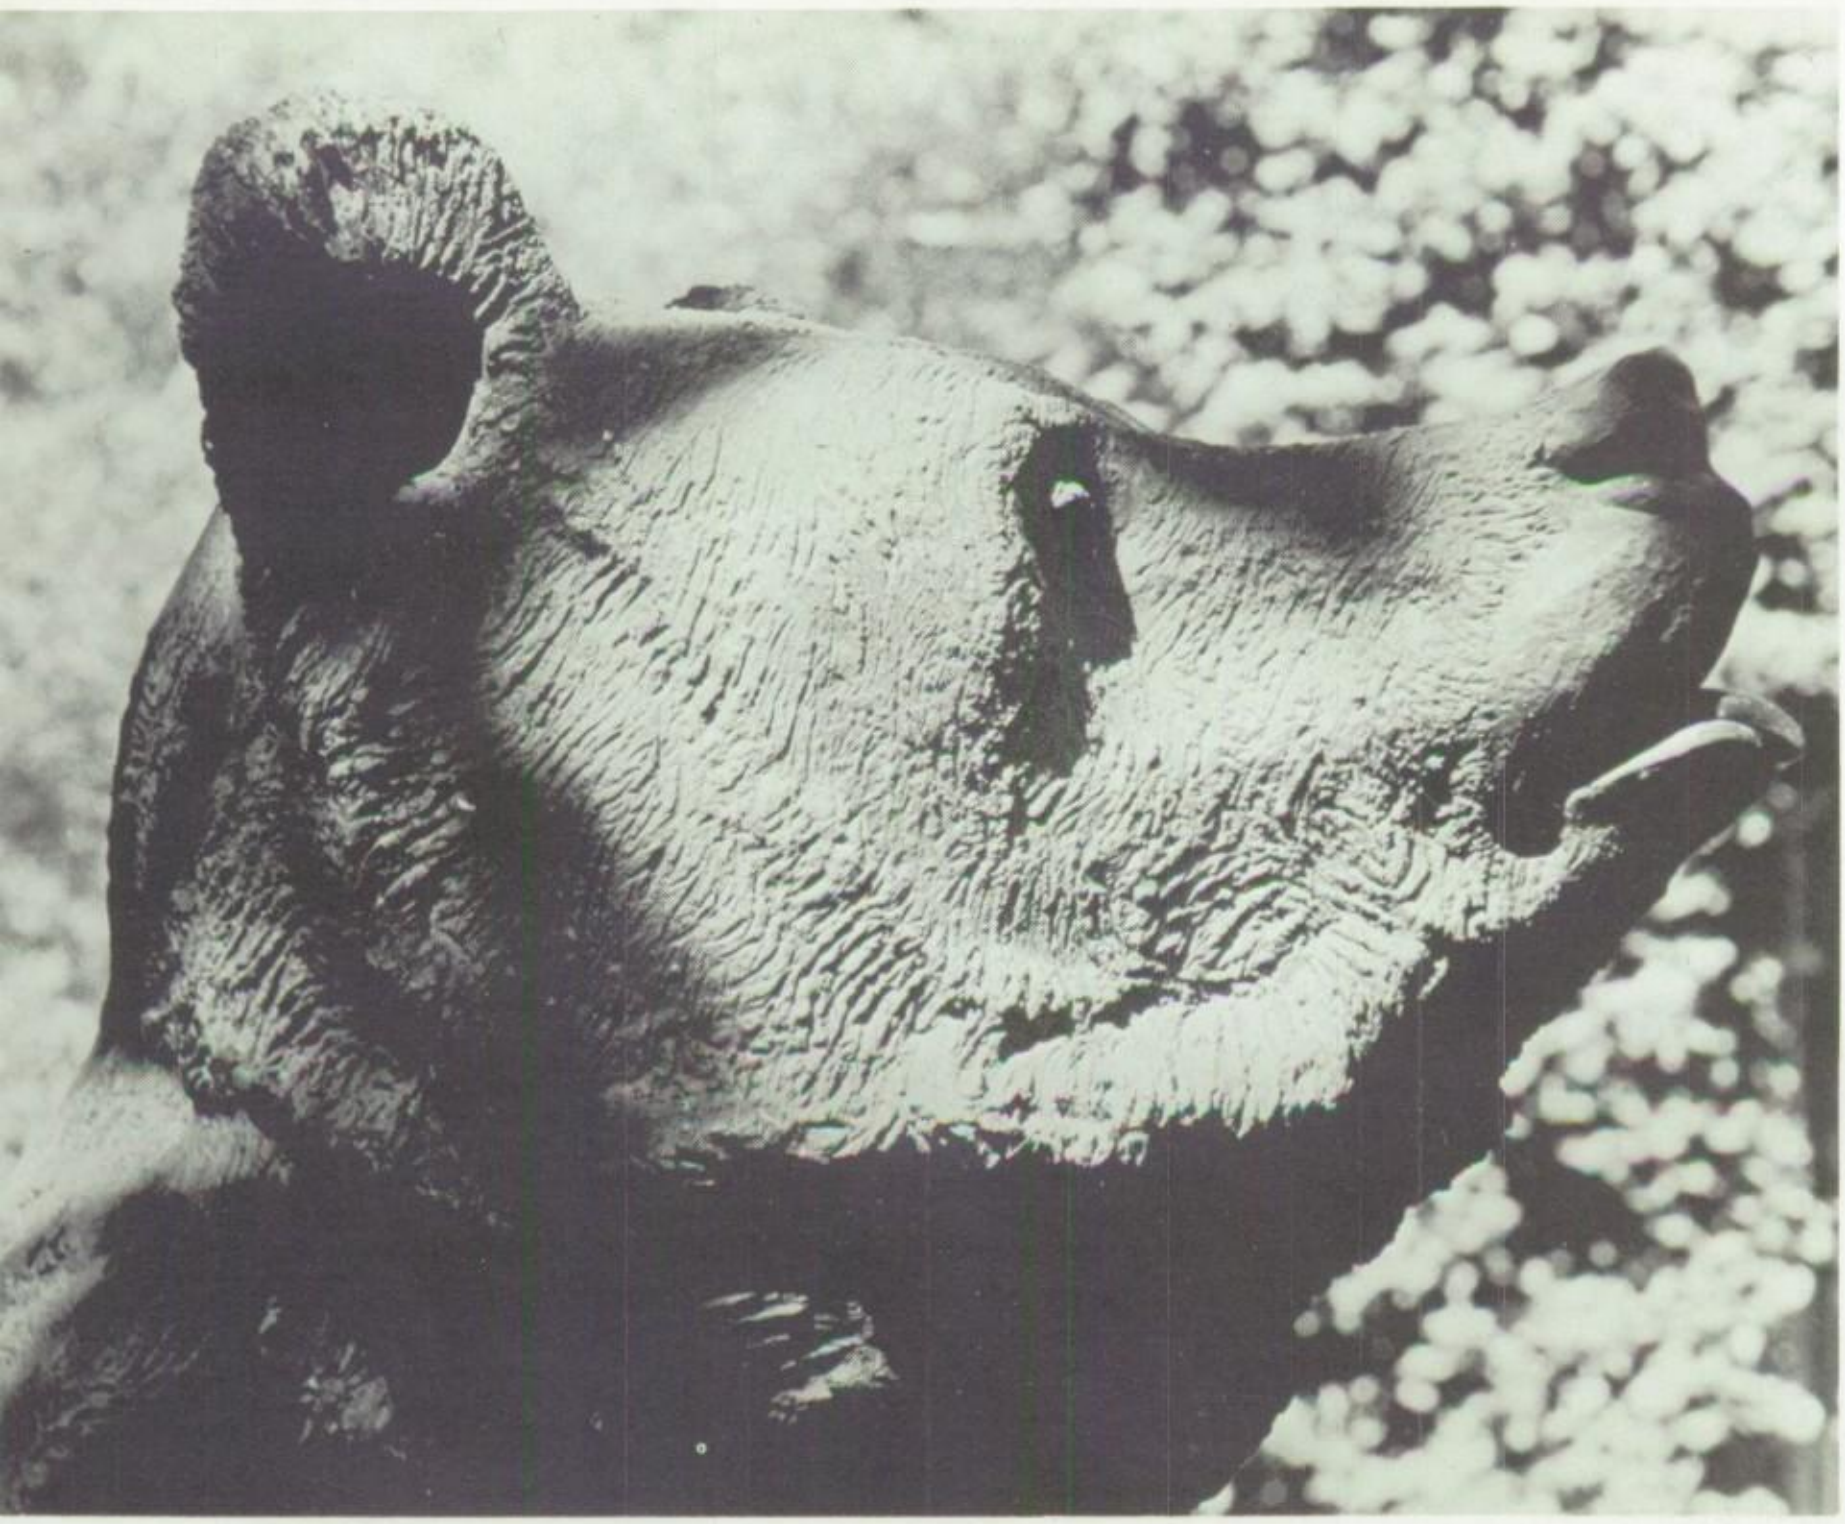
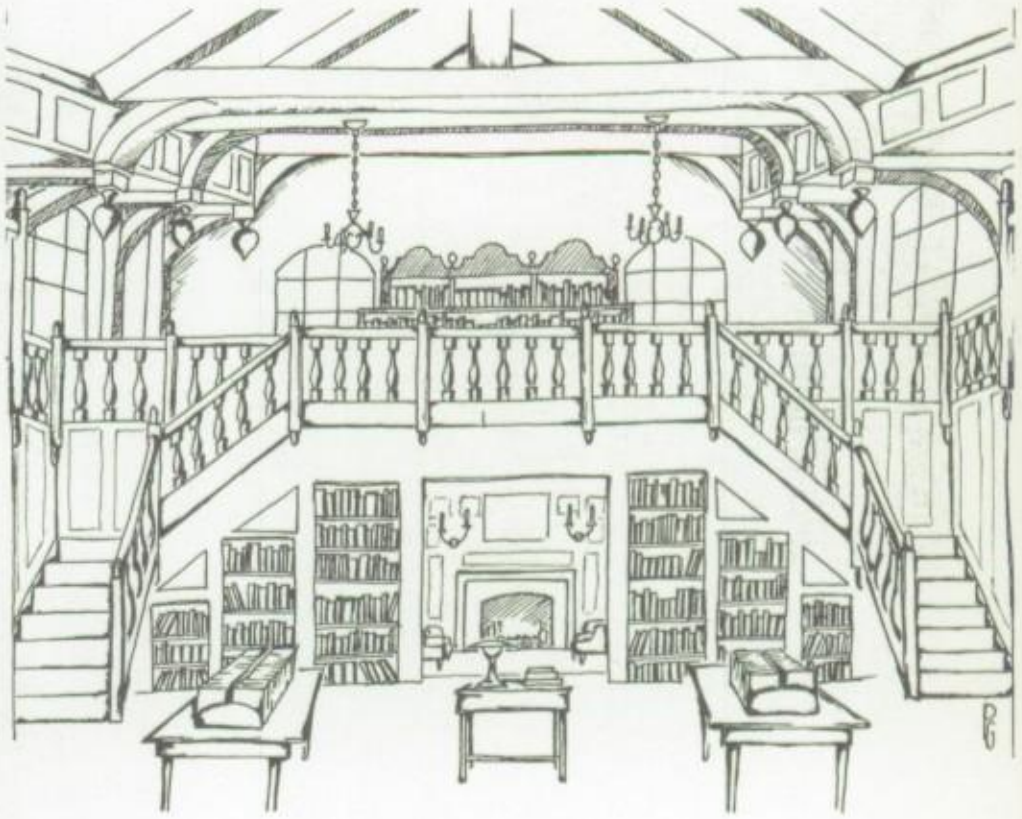
LANDON SCHO







It is not that "A house divided cannot stand."
. . . That is debatable. It is only that a unified house will stand stronger.

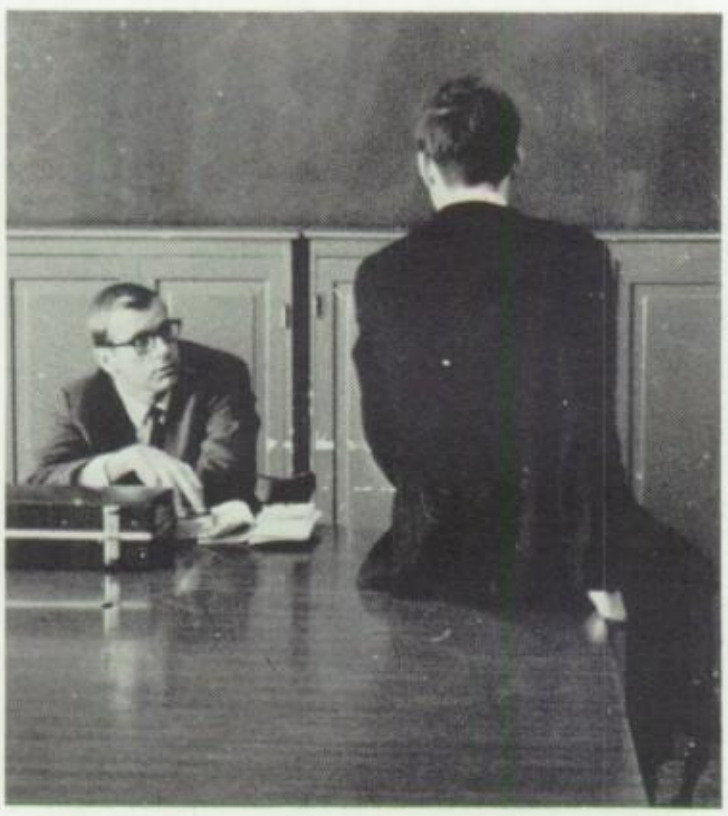
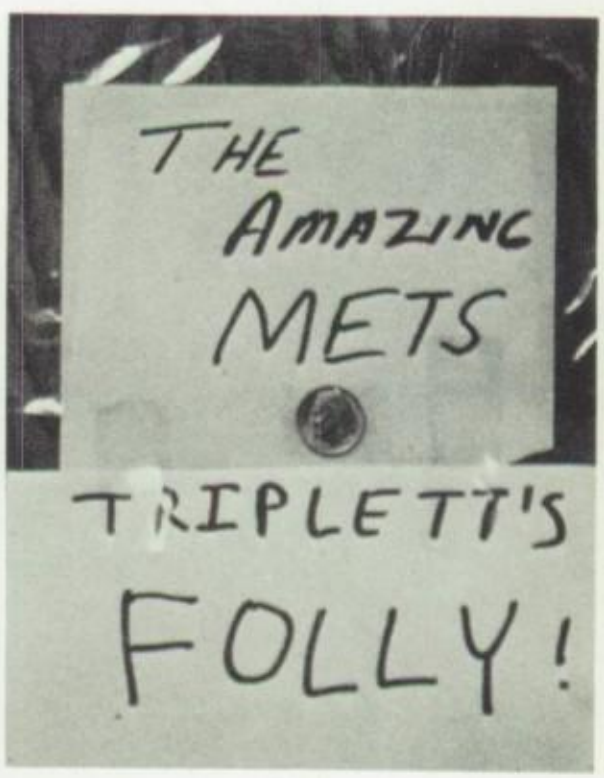
Nor is such a house composed solely of windows or solely of chimneys; like other houses, it must have its fair share of a diversity of elements

. . . including its leaks.





And it must have windows on all four sides facing in all four directions to allow a diversity of viewpoints and a breadth of outlook.

DEDICATION

We, the class of 1970, dedicate this book to the school and to its founder, Paul Landon Banfield.

Genius begins great works; labor alone finishes them.

Joubert

Wisdom is the principal thing;
therefore get wisdom; and with all thy getting get understanding.
Old Testament

Paul Landon Banfield had a dream forty years ago: to establish a school with demanding academic courses and rigorous athletic activities that would infuse in its students values and standards for the future. Endowed with only a 5000 dollar loan and the tenacity of Sisyphus, Mr. Banfield wrought out of loyal, determined masters and eager, motivated students a school that has expanded and evolved almost yearly, while still retaining its basic, rugged philosophy.

Probably the phrase "of highest integrity" applies best to Mr. Banfield. His belief in, adherence to, and insistence upon such "old values" as courage, honesty, hard work, dedication, and justness have always had a unifying effect on the school, which has had in him an excellent example to follow. Though "Banny" no longer involves himself directly in all areas of school life—once he was a master and a coach as well as headmaster—his presence still is felt throughout the school and, indeed, always will be felt.

For Mr. Banfield is living proof that the "old values" truly do have value. Forced to give up a promising medical career because he could not finance any further education after graduating from St. John's in Annapolis, where he was an outstanding athlete, he established a school that has influenced and molded hundreds of its graduates. Leaving Landon temporarily during World War II, Mr. Banfield served with distinction as a major in the Air Force. He has been president of the Suburban Hospital, vice-president of the Montgomery County YMCA, and chairman of the independent schools section of the1952 Infantile Paralysis Drive. Though he characterizes himself as gruff and unpleasant, his work in the school and outside of it has won him numerous close friends. Perhaps more importantly, no man who knows him does not respect him.

Landon has produced many outstanding graduates, but probably none so noble in intention, untiring in effort, or humble in success as its forty-year student who graduates this year. Such men are not born often; in reality, they are not born at all, but made—by themselves.

L'unité ne vaut rien sans la direction.

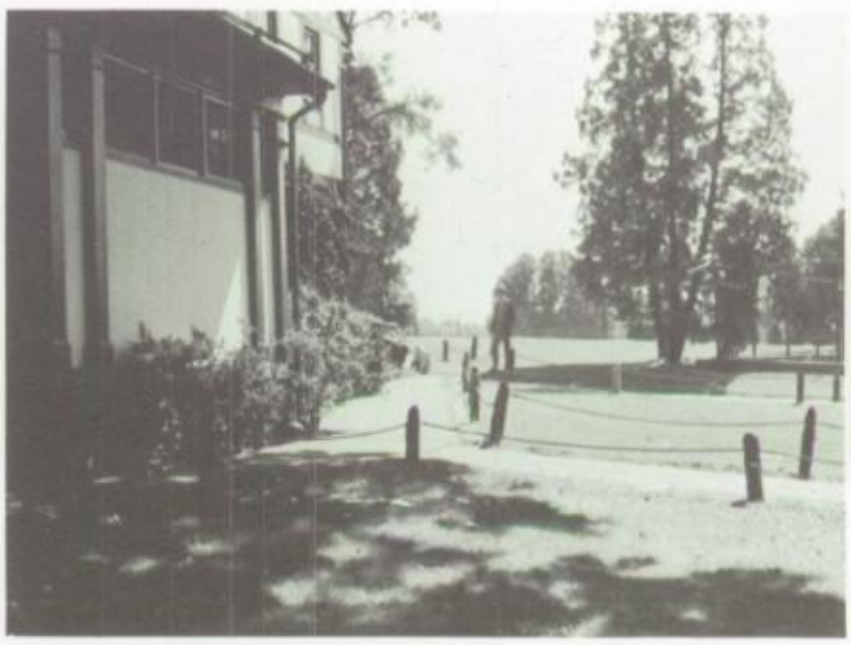
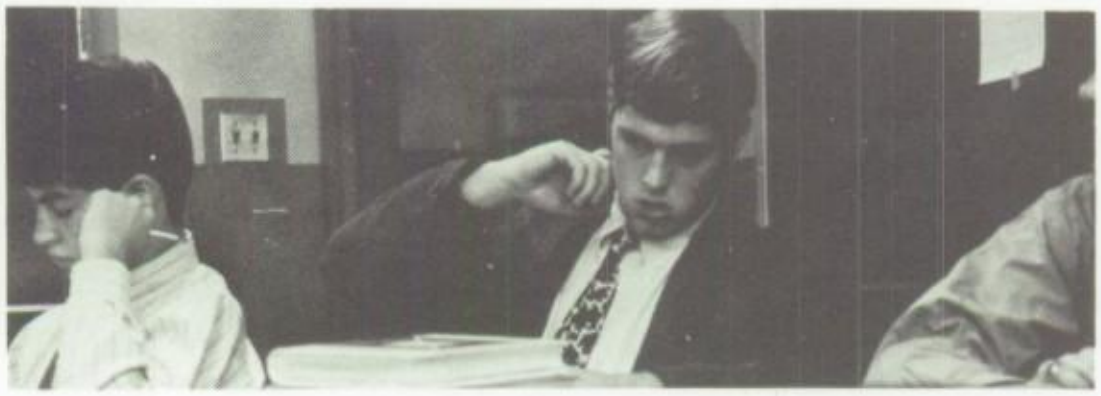
"My pessimism extends to the point of even suspecting the sincerity of other pessimists."

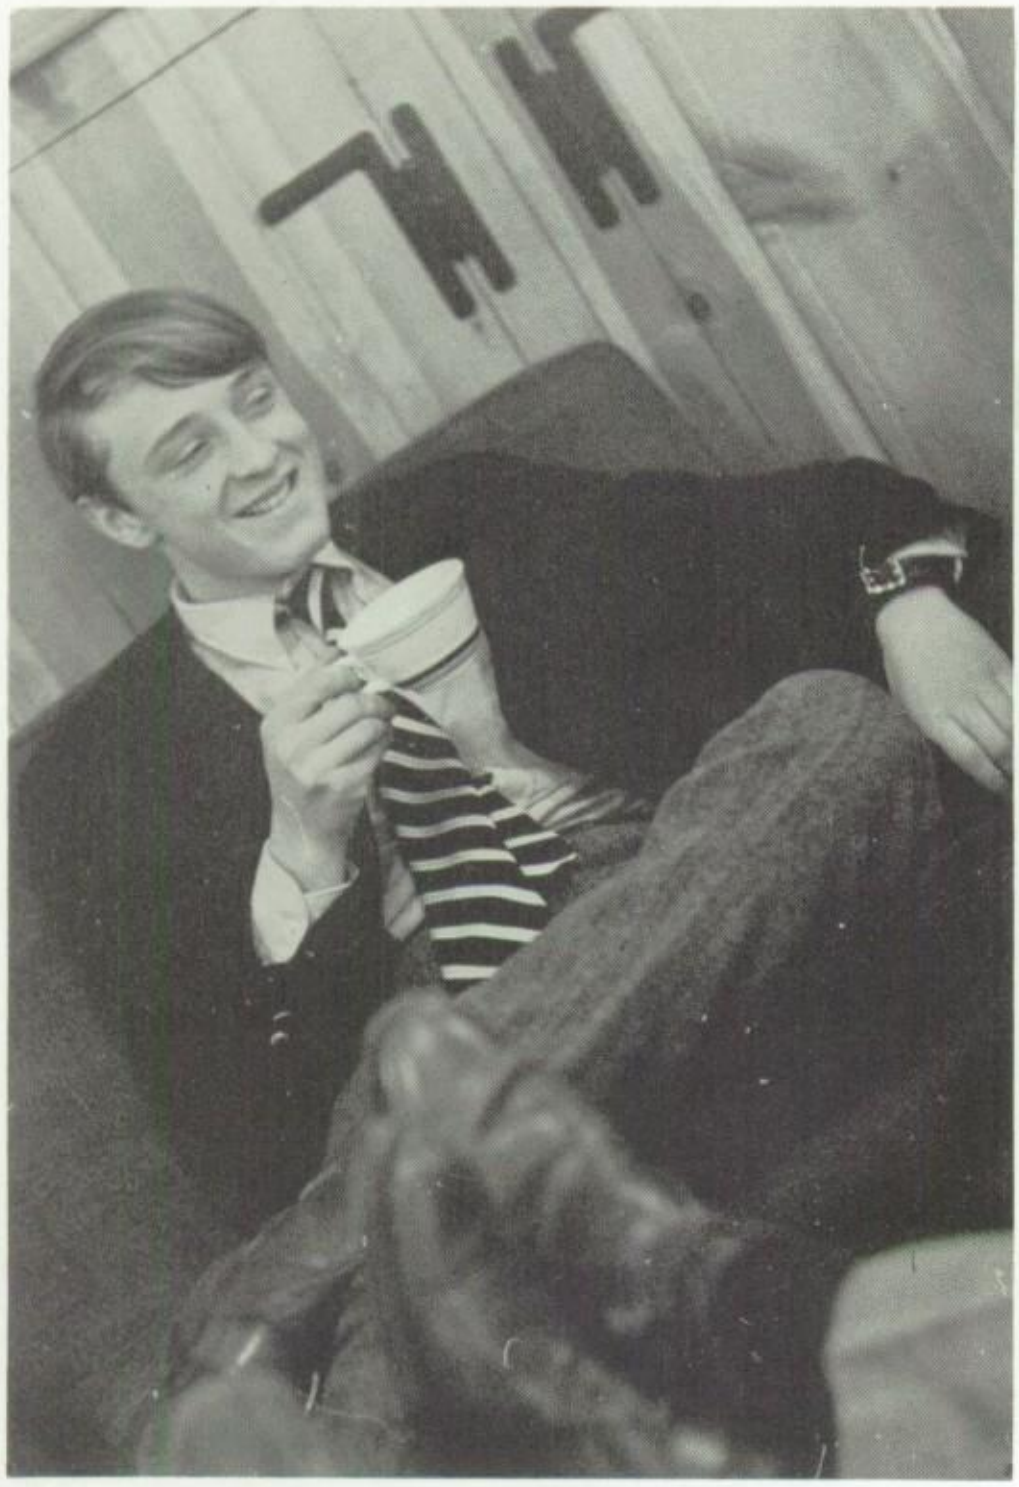
Jean Rostard

Unity resides not only in optimism but also in pessimism.

Therefore pessimism assumes an optimistic note.







There never were in the world two opinions alike, no more than two hairs or two grains; the most universal quality is diversity.

—Montaigne

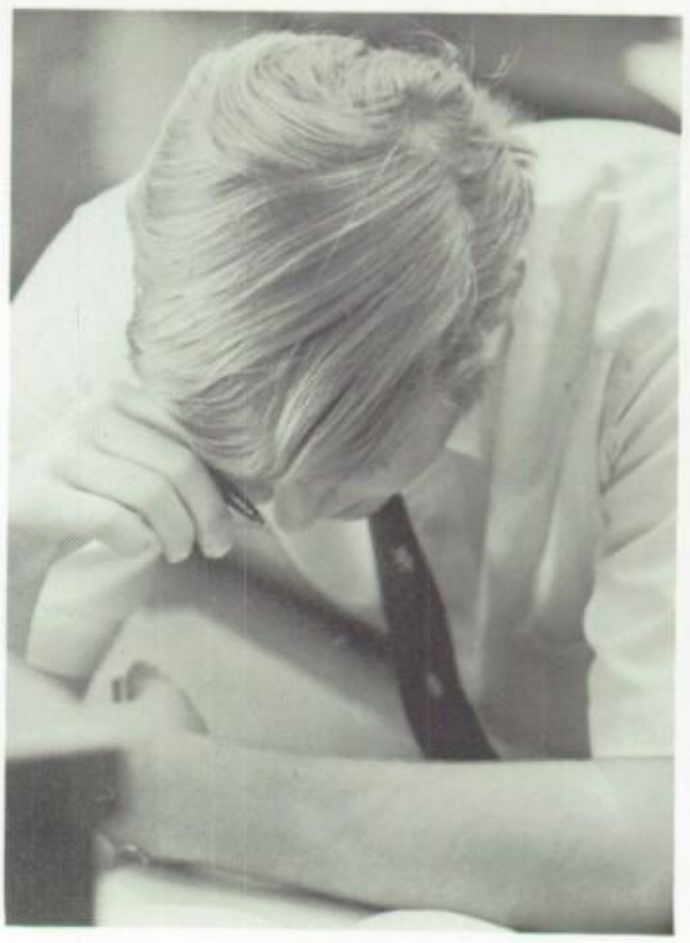
STAY OFF
BANK



Ours is a unity that consists not only of mass participation but of individual relationships.

And ours is a special kind of unity that resides in diversity of dividers.

Unity is complete only when a person is allowed to escape it.

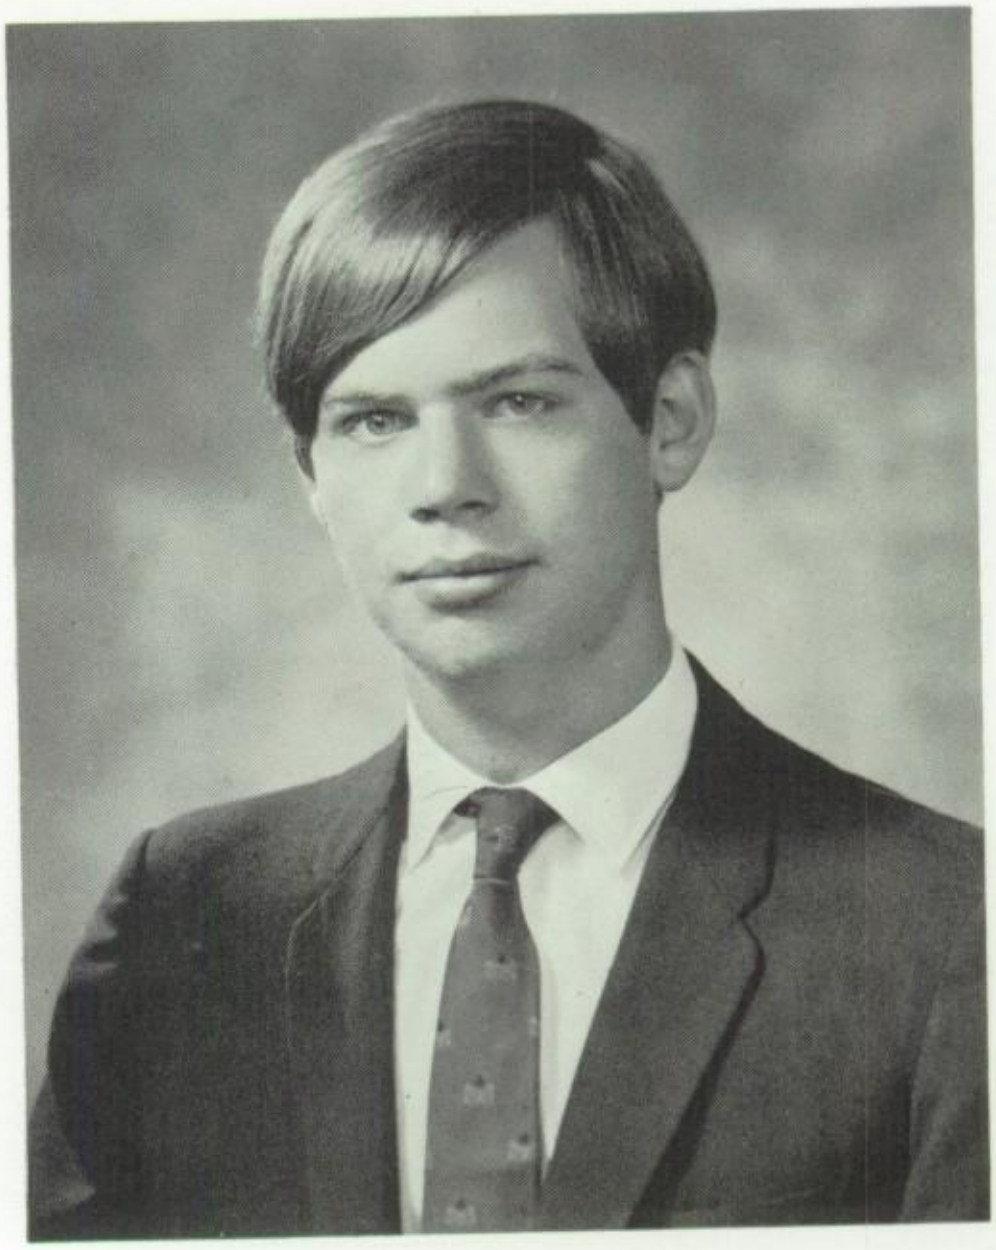
ROBERT BRUCE ARNOLD

"Buck" "Bob"

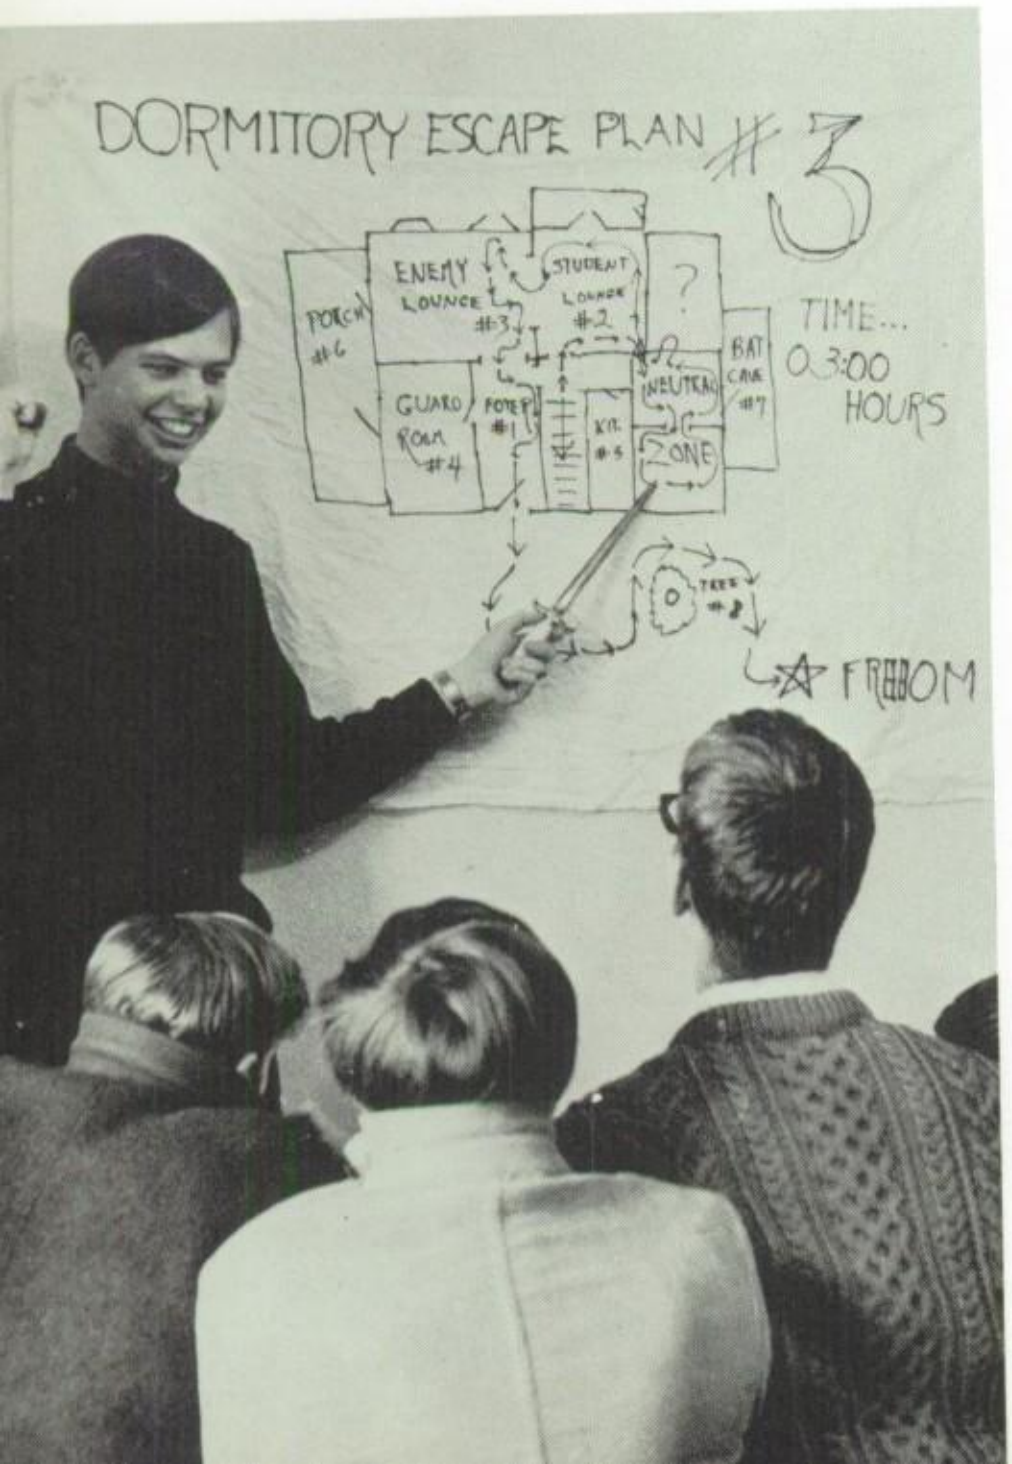
Entered Grade Six

Audio-Visual Committee 3,4,5,6; Glee Club 3; Dance Committee 6; Cheerleaders 6; Student Library Comittee 6; Photography Club 4,5,6; Student Teacher 5; National Merit Letter of Commendation.

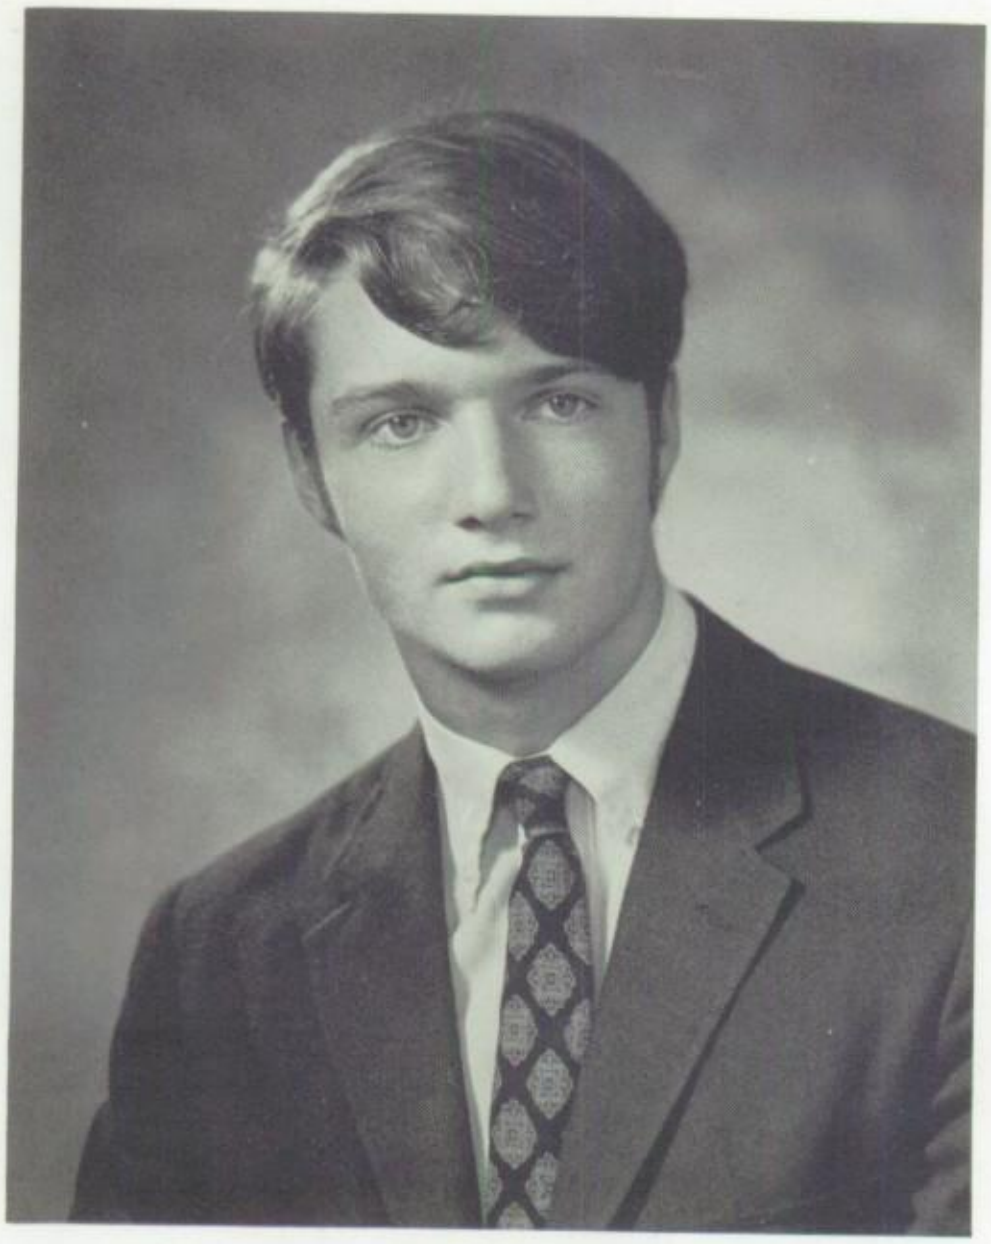


A cynic is one who, when he smells flowers, looks around for a coffin.

–H.L. Mencken



Bob is one of the quiet and reserved members of the form. However, his strong opinions on a diversity of subjects make him one of the most provocative persons to engage in conversation. Those who know him well appreciate his particular capabilities, the most obvious of which is his knowledge of the military. This particular capacity becomes evident in the history courses he has taken. But his true calling is cynicism which has earned him the title of "Form Cynic." With biting invective Bob can render any situation or institution totally absurd. Although Bob has not been associated with the more athletically minded in the form, he has lent his enthusiasm to other forms of school life, the latest of these interests being the art of cheerleading, where he has aided in the mass conversion of a dormant student body into a wildly cheering crowd of athletic supporters, thus proving that nothing is impossible at Landon.



Experience is not what happens to a man; it is what a man does with what happens to him.

—Aldous Huxley

MARK BUTLER BIERBOWER

"Groover" "Blower"

Entered Form Three

Brown and White 6; Glee Club 5,6; Dance Committee 4,5,6; Student Library Committee 5,6; Football 5,6.

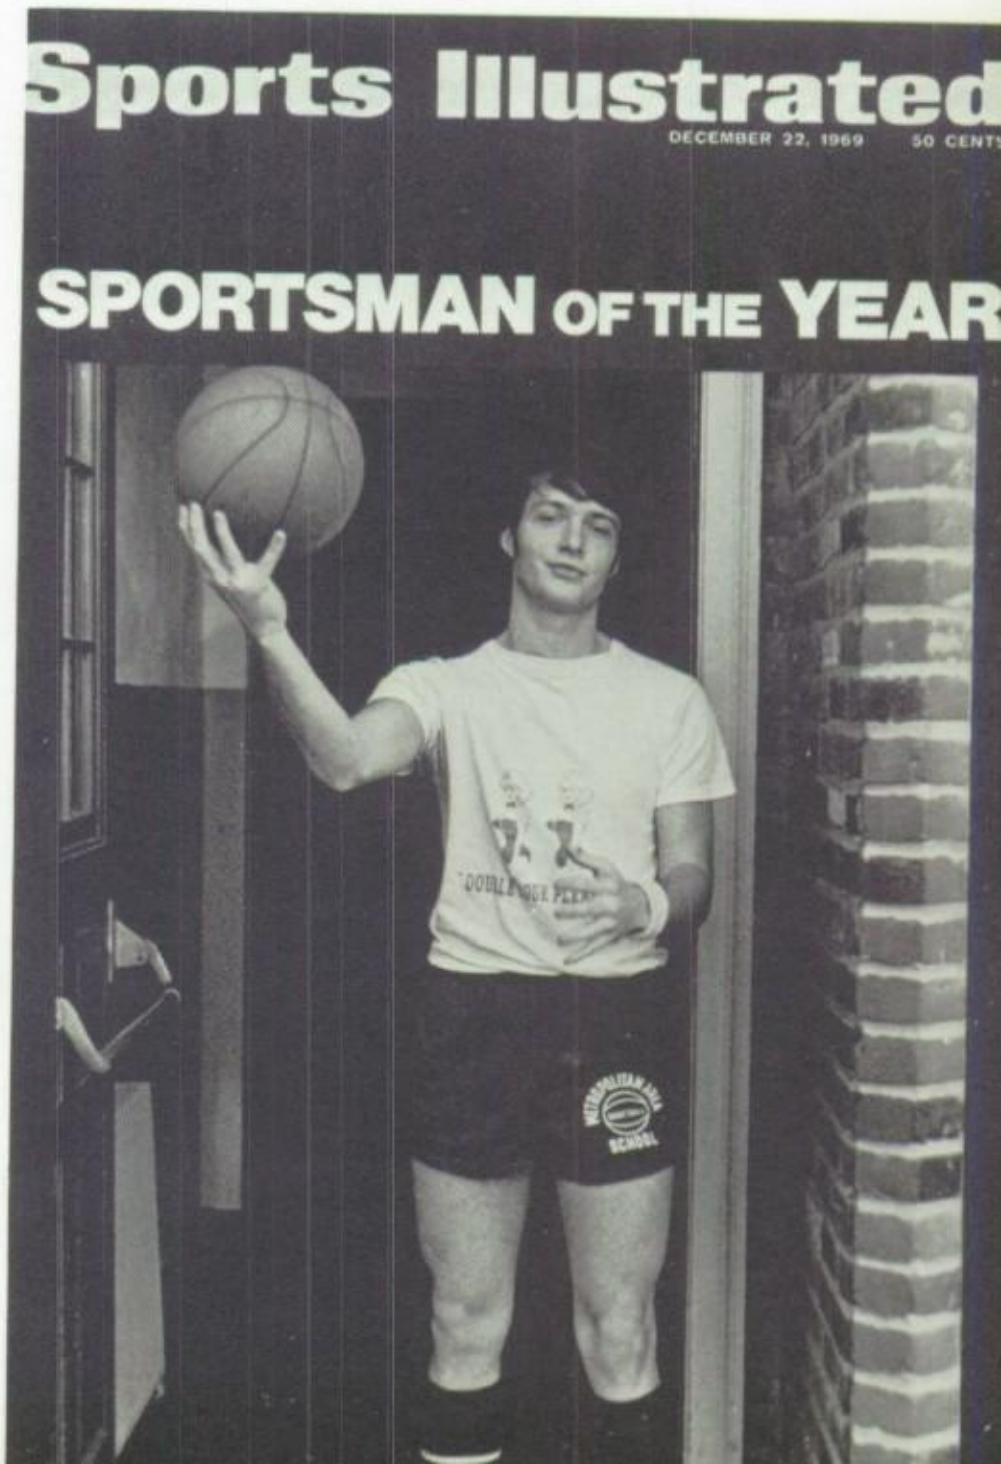
Mark, we are told, succeeds not only in scholarly endeavors, but also those other, more earthy areas. With a happy-go-lucky attitude one minute and a serious approach to the problems of the world the next, Mark's well-rounded personality has brought him many friends and lovers. Though not an intellectual, he is one of the form's more thoughtful students. Unlike many of his classmates, he has definite goals in life and is secure enough in his convictions that he is not afraid of giving his opinion on any subject. Combining frankness with a sense of humor, which is a neat trick in itself, Mark has become one of the most popular members of the form. With his Falstaff imitations rivaling those of Griff, and his lawyer arguments rivaling those of Perry Mason, there is no doubt that Mark, the jovial un-intellectual, will find success.

Insert by Neato: I was asked to add something to this, but I cannot lie.



EDMUND STUART BITTINGER

"Ned" "Neato"

Entered Grade Four

I am always at a loss to know how much to believe of my own stories.

—Washington Irving

Whenever anyone is in a bad humor, Neato Ned seems to appear. Poor Ned is always in the wrong places at the right time. Although at times Ned becomes the scapegoat of the form, his good nature and sense of humor have earned him the tacit respect of his classmates. Yes, Ned's familiar smiling face proves a welcome change in any situation. He first achieved fame at Landon through the comic strip "The Adventures of Neato Ned" in which he, of course, was the main character. Each summer Ned flees from the drudgeries of urban life for a luxurious season of park service in Yellowstone. His stories of summer fun always prove interesting, including cleaning up after bears and moving outhouses. Often one can find Neato gazing out a window, daydreaming about his vacation experiences. Recently he became President of the Clef Dwellers. Under his brilliant leadership, several new innovations have been instituted. An example of his unprededented actions is the fact that the group will not cut a record this year. Among Neato's varied talents, his artistic ability stands out. His cartoons and drawings always prove popular, and a promising future may await Ned in this field.

A foot on the brake is worth two in the grave.

ANTHONY SCOTT BROWN

"Bah" "Scott"

Entered Grade Six

Brown and White 6; Audio-Visual Committee 3,4,5,6; St. Genesius Society 5,6; Student Library Committee 6; Rifle Club 6; Football 5,6; Basketball 5, Baseball 6; National Merit Letter of Commendation.

Traditionally one of the black sheep of the form, Scott recently triumphed over his intellectual reputation by his brilliant performance on the National Merit. Always ready to promote extra-curricular activities at the ball-park and at his home, he is a true believer in the "good life." Although his style of humor is not readily accepted by some of the sharper tastes of the form, Scott quickly regains his composure and tries again with admirable perseverance. Of great importance to Scott and Landon both is his formidable toe, which has served to make the Bears what they are today. Unaffected by criticism, he goes on in pursuit of his goals, sometimes reaching them, sometimes not. He is always consoled by the realization that there will be another game another day.

BENJAMIN FORD BRUNDRED III

"Ben"

Entered Grade Four

Brown and White 6; Landon News 5,6; Glee Club 4,5; Soccer 6; Golf 4,5,6; Captain 6; Rifle Club 6; National Merit Letter of Commendation.

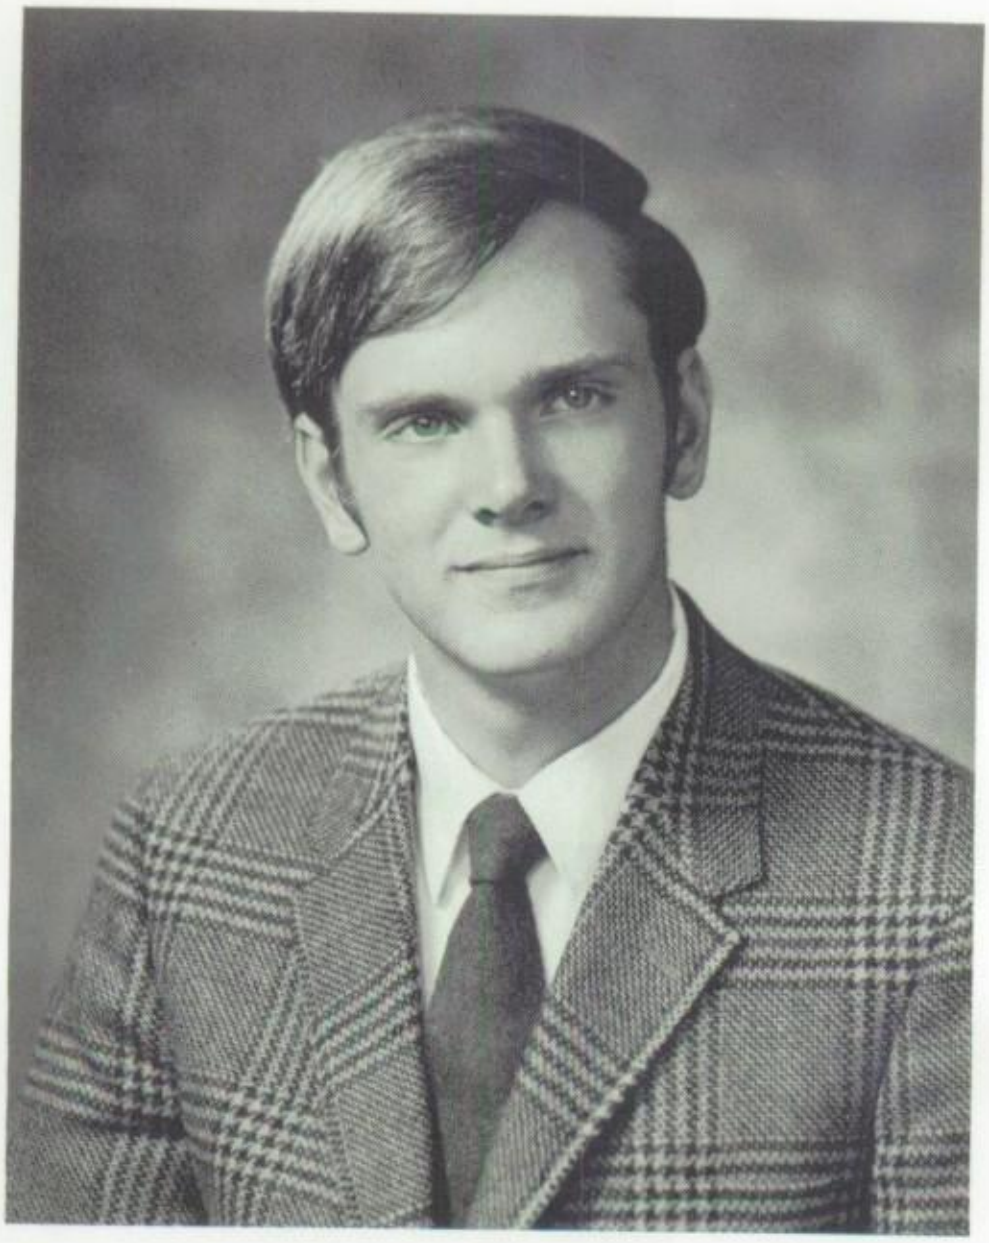
The most thoroughly wasted of all days is that on which one has not laughed.

—Chamfort

Ben is one of our more good-natured members. He is always in a pleasant mood, and nothing ever seems to depress him. Whether he has been warned or lost a golf match, which he seldom does, he laughs it off in his happy-go-lucky manner. When it comes to golf, "Bruns" is in a class by himself. He has been on the golf team for the last three years and is this year's captain. One reason that he has been so successful in this game is that he is one of the few people who does not lose his patience. It is a real pleasure to participate in any sport with Ben due to his good sportsmanship.

One thing that the entire form does wish, though, is that Ben would buy himself a new tie. He has worn one tie since fourth form at least three times a week. Everyone can tell what he had for breakfast each morning by observing the new spot. It started out as a solid green tie, but now it is more of a paisley.

At any rate it would be no surprise to anyone to see Ben's name engraved on golf balls, clubs, shirts, hats, and other golfing attire with the next few years.



The man of independent mind, he looks and laughs at a' that.

DAVID WEGNER BURCHMORE

"Dave"

Entered Form Four

Brown and White 6; Prometheus 5,6; Editor 6; St. Genesius Society 5,6; Vice-President 6; Student Library Committee 4,5; Cum Laude 5,6; Student Teacher 5; National Merit Semi-Finalist.

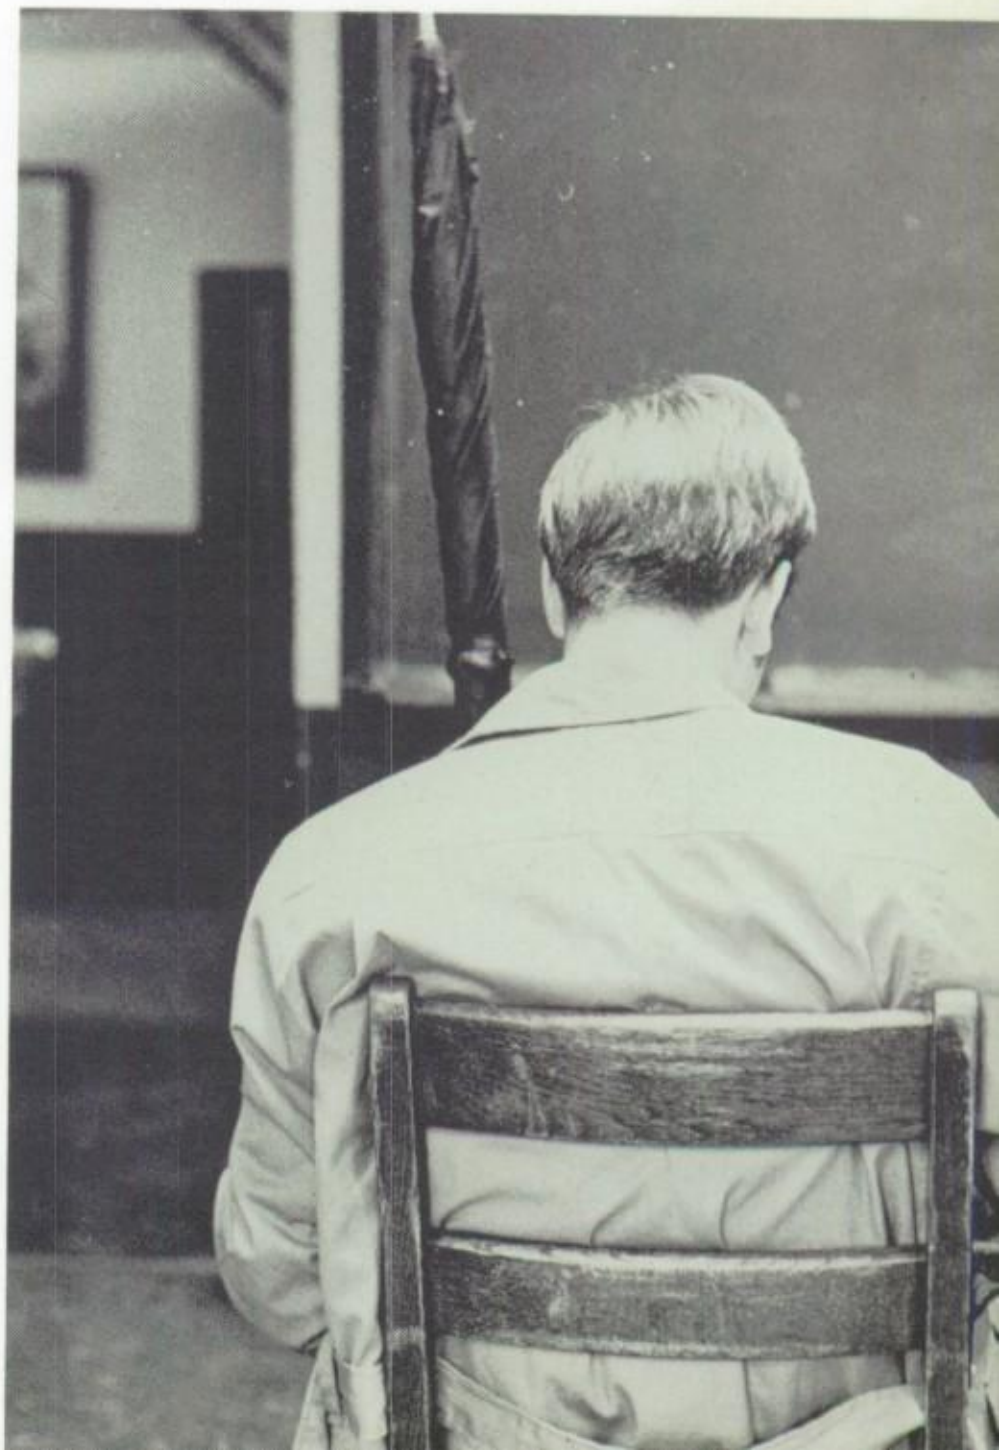
Assuming the air of a contemptuous but condescending British aristocrat, David disdainfully repels the friendly advance of his intellectual inferiors. With his pipe gripped gracefully between his teeth, he exists in a cultural atmosphere of his own, lost in personal, stage, literary, and philosophic pursuits. Fresh air makes him a new man, however; on the tennis and volleyball courts he stands supreme in power and majesty, always intimidating his opponents with his cheerful ferocity. Being of slight build, though, he rarely inflicts permanent injury on anyone but placidly accepts his supremacy without haughtiness, even when he loses. David rarely dwells on his athletic success for long. After aerating his lungs on the courts, he rushes off campus in his slightly built automobile to increase his prowess in other fields of endeavor. One of these is the cultivation of winning ways with women, where he is known as a connoisseur of beauty. As far as David's future is concerned, it is certain that he will glide through life enjoying his aristocratic tastes and his intellectual passtimes.



CHARLES ALOYSIUS CAMALIER III

"Chris" "Cams" "Rear"

Entered Grade Four

Brown and White 6: Circulation Manager 6; Glee Club 5; Dance Committee 4,5,6; Student Library Committee 5,6; Football 6, Golf 6; National Merit Letter of Commendation.

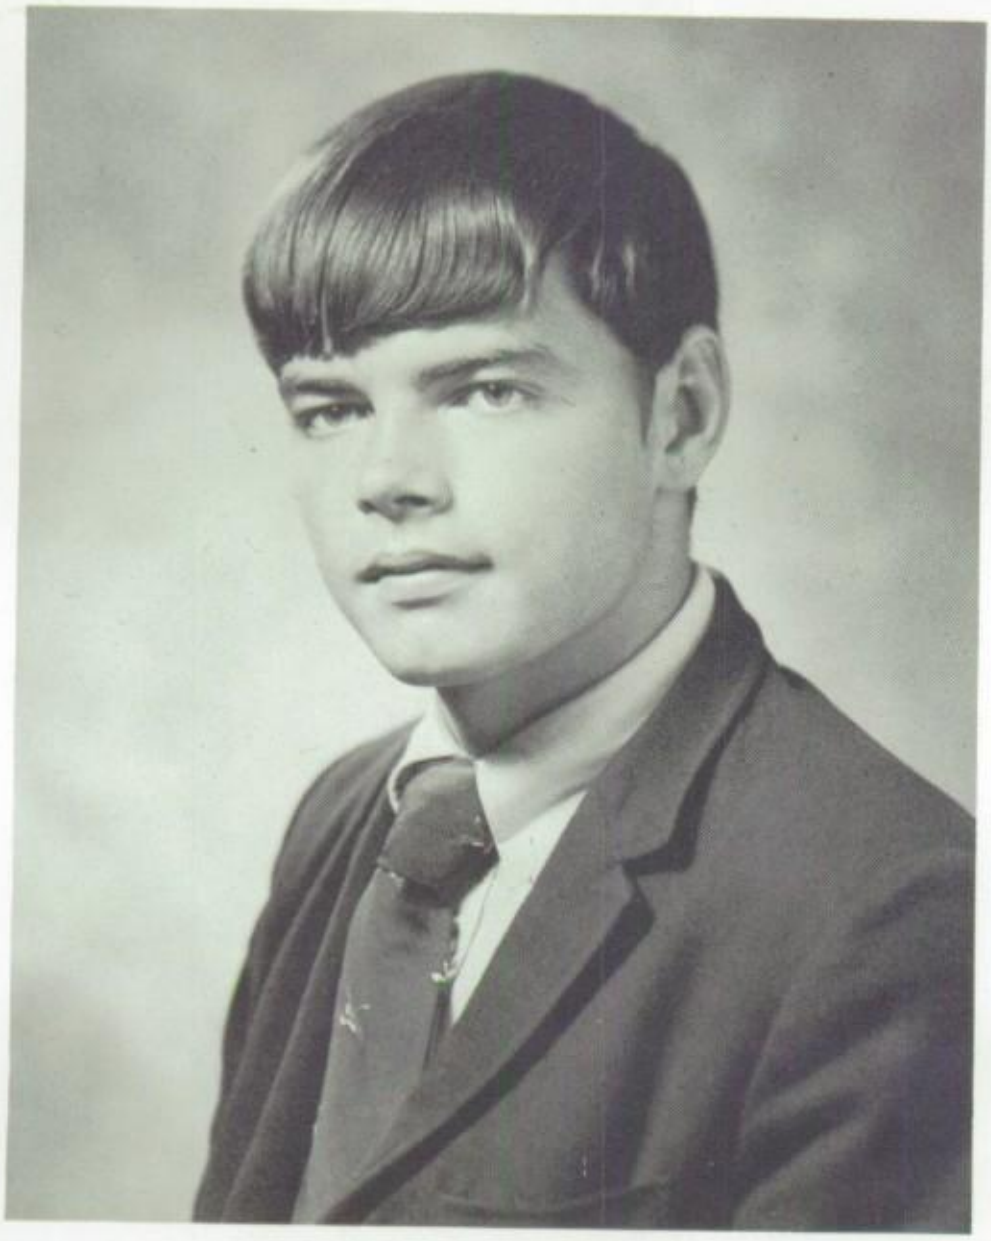
Be happy.
Nutrament

Chris Camalier, the heir apparent to the Washington Leather Dynasty, is one of the more controversial members of the sixth form, for there are various aspects of his character that are not apparent to the casual observer. He travels with an aura of good humor, but his personality goes much deeper to a great seriousness and willingness to help whenever possible. His dedication to the football team is one of the best examples of this willingness, for, despite the fact that Chris was not the heaviest member, he worked steadily with the team from the beginning of the year and made a definite contribution.

Another of his characteristics is a mild pugnacity which is proven to anyone who should pose a threat to his car, such as parking within twenty-five yards, or to anyone who should accidentaly trip over his leather attache case, now in its sixth faithful year. His sense of humor provides amusement to the whole class, for he is always ready with a quick retort to toss out at the appropriate moment, or, if all else fails, he pulls out his handkerchief, which always brings down the house.



What comtemptible scoundrel stole the cork from my lunch?

—W.C. Fields

FRANCIS JOSEPH CRILLEY III

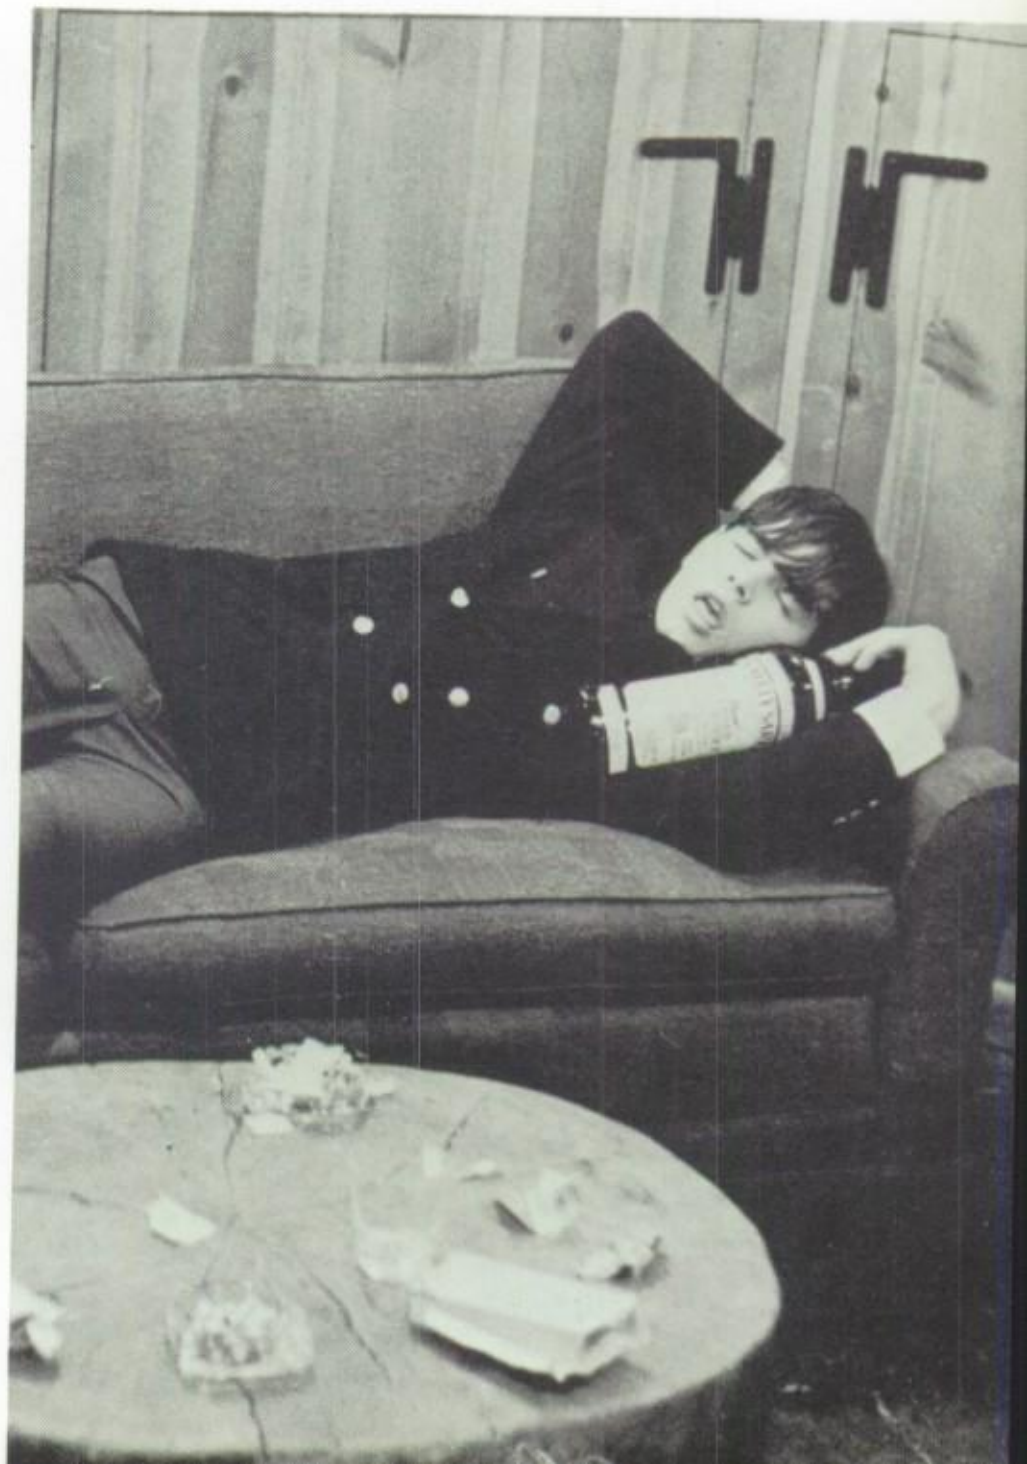
"Frank" "Crills" "Franny"

Entered Form One

Student Council 3,5; Dance Committee 5,6; Student Library Committee 6; Rifle Club 6; Football 6; Baseball 5,6; Class Secretary-Treasurer 4; Class Vice-President 5; Class Social Director.

Out of sundry brothers and sisters Frank has emerged as a true individual. Or, to put it in less rhetorical terms—a real character. An incredibly quick mind has blessed Frannie with an ability to come back with a biting repartee to any verbal exchange, much to the amusement of the listener and to the chagrin of those who try and inevitably fail to match his wits. This same ability has served him well in the field of mathematics and science where he evinces a computer-like speed in solving problems. An unquenchable search for a good time has established Frank as the social director of the form; if there's a party, you can be sure he knows of it.

No matter where he is, you always have to be sure that he won't sneak up behind you and explode a blank gun in your ear—"Caution, Frank Crilley may be hazardous to your health." But despite the number of times you have been a victim of his practical jokes, you can't help but like the guy. We only hope he makes use of his mind, rather than causing the financial failure of some fraternity.



WILLIAM EUGENE DEPUY, JR.
"Bill"
Entered Form One
Audio-Visual Committee 3,4,5,6; St. Genesius Society 5,6; Prometheus 6; Student Library Committee 3,4,5,6;Rifle Club 3,4; National Merit Letter of Commendation.

Que scais-je?

—Montaigne

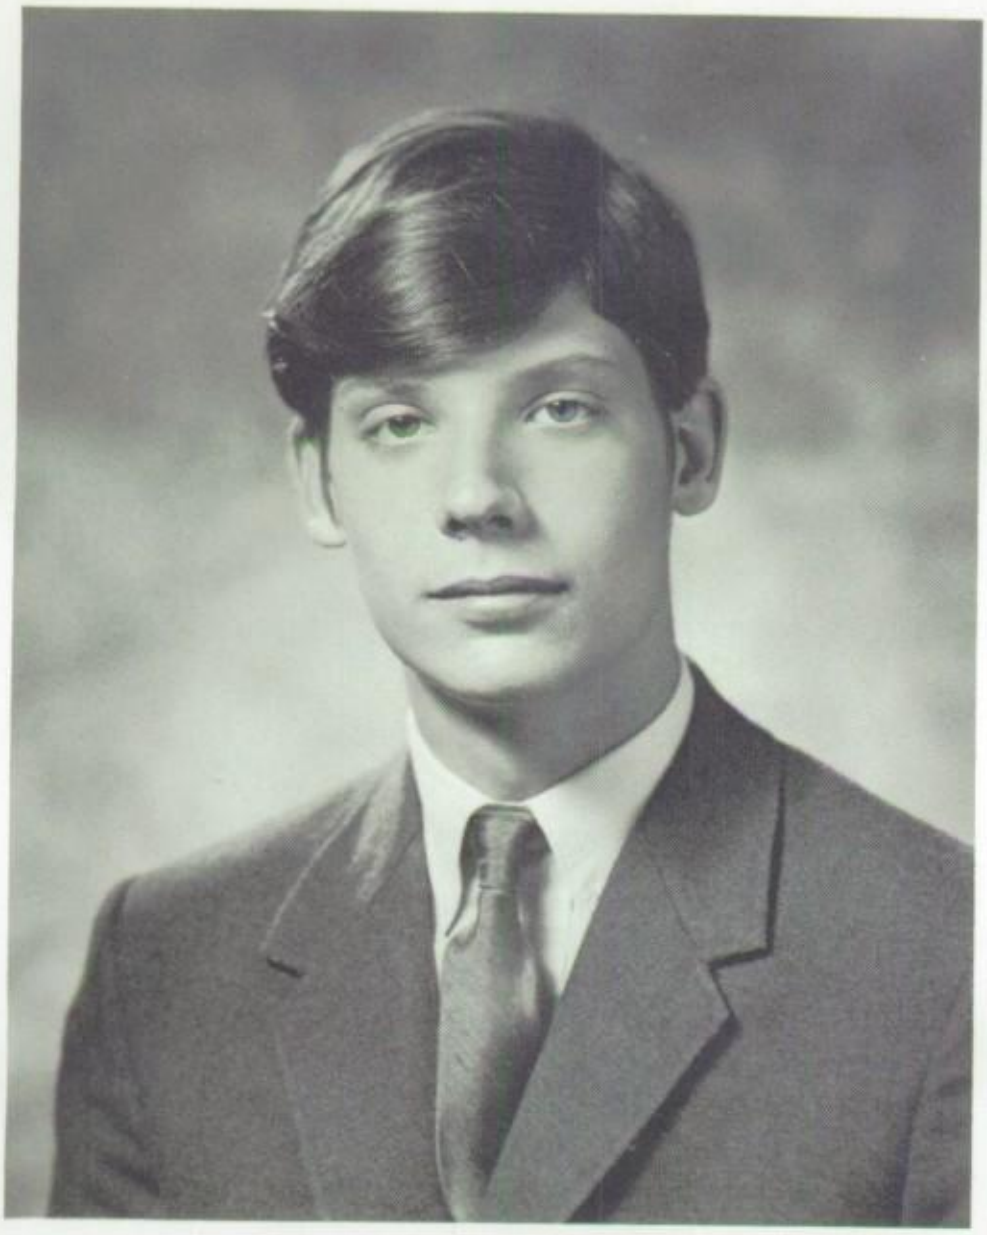
Known equally for ruthless cynicism and carefree ebullience, Bill can be both a staunch friend and questionable classmate. Because two such traits are none too compatible, the fluctuations in Bill's responses to life are often startling. One period may find Bill delivering an extemporaneous diatribe to a fellow student, the next may find him in a state of blissful quietude, while a third may find him exuberantly happy. Such fluctuations are the product of an extremely sensitive nature, and while he is somewhat vulnerable to external influences, he manages to retain a firm character base from which to work. And if you see Bill standing alone, don't disturb him. He's either humming John Maiall or working on a new poem.



I wandered lonely as a cloud that floats on high o're vales and hills.

—William Wordsworth

MARK MALLORY FARMER

"Mark"

Entered Grade Five

Brown and White 6; Audio-Visual Committee 3,4,5; Dance Committee 6; Cheerleader 6; Student Library Committee 4,5,6; Rifle Club 3,4.

Marcus Agricola, commonly referred to as Mark Farmer, is one of the quieter members of our form. He may often be found in the Sixth Form Lounge sipping coffee, or perhaps chocolate milk, and acting as an audience to either a boisterous story or a personal confession of one of his classmates. Everyone finds him a charitable person, always willing to donate a cigarette or give a car-less classmate a ride home. In fact, Mark is someone who, because of his unobstrusive manner, could not possibly offend anyone. Those that have taken the time to really know him find him a sensitive and understanding person. This year has been one of self-discovery for Mark. While his self-appraisal seems not entirely optimistic at times, accurate character evaluation is a very honorable quality, and one which places Mark above many of his classmates.

FREDERIC PERRY FITTS

"Ted"

Entered Form Three

Brown and White 6; Bear Club 5,6; Secretary-Treasurer 6; Landon News 5,6; Photographic Editor 6; Audio-Visual Committee 3,4,5,6; Student Library Committee 4,5,6; Photography Club 5,6; President 6; Soccer 6; Rifle Club 6.

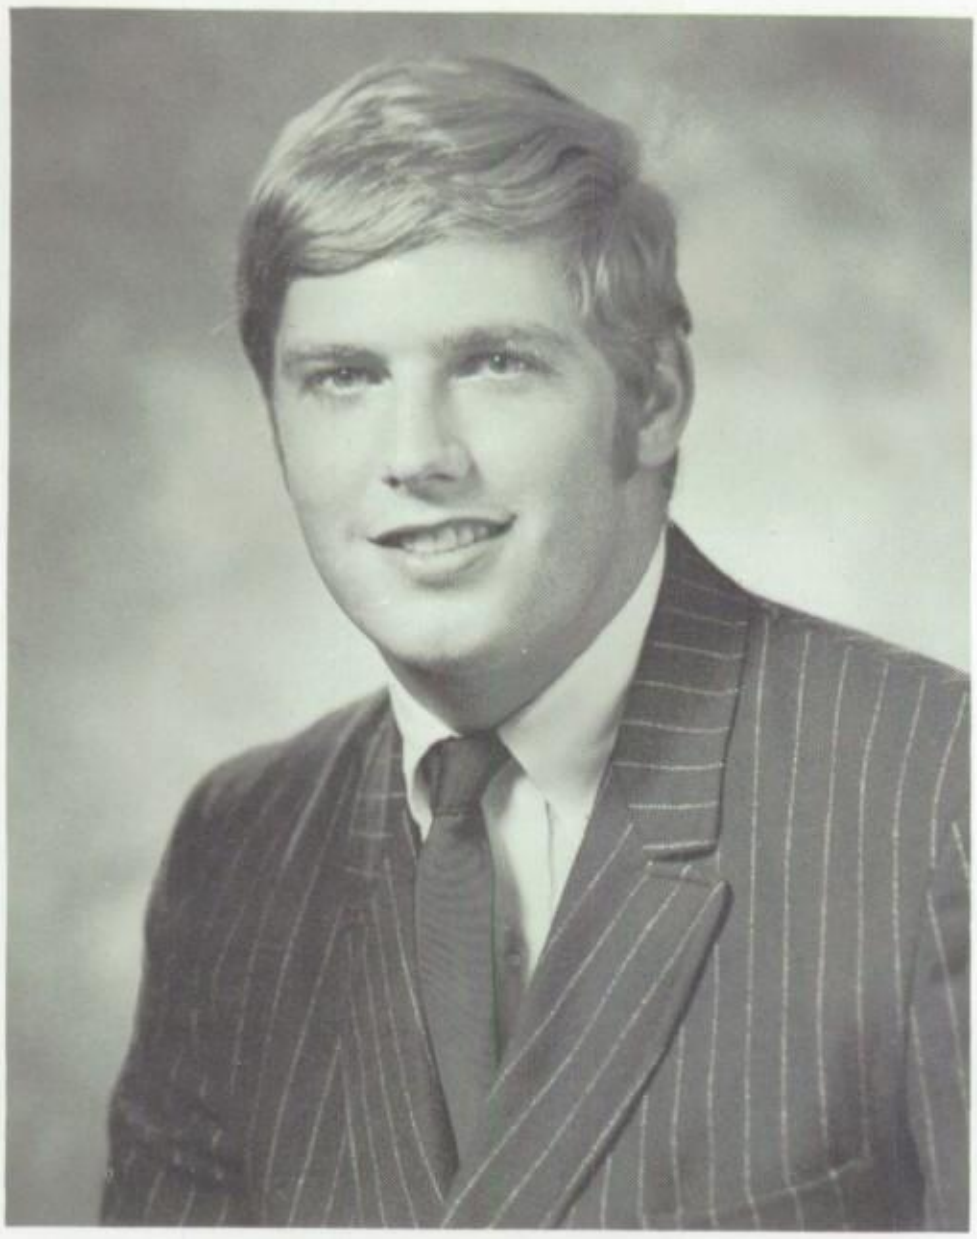
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I, I took the one less traveled by.

—Robert Frost

Ted, by virtue of his good nature and respectable character, was elected a member of the Bear Club and has been a devoted Bear Clubber ever since. He clubbed seven last year! Ted's other principle interest is photography. President of this year's Photo Club, he is very active as a shutter clicker for all the major Landon publications. His voice being too deep for him to get into the Clef Dwellers, he has much time to devote to his numerous activities, to which he arduously applies himself. Ted's scholastic record is enviable, especially in Spanish, where he completed all the school's courses in that field a year before his classmates could. Ted's earnest desire to please and his willingness to help out where needed have established him as one of the basic necessities of the school. To be sure, Ted has left his mark at Landon, and it will not soon be erased.



PAUL HOWARD GRIFFITH III
"Griff"
Entered Grade Three
Brown and White 6; Photographic Editor 6; Bear Club 5,6; St. Genesius Society 5,6; President 6; Clef Dwellers 6; "L" Club 6; Football 4,5,6; Soccer 4,5,6; Co-Captain 6; Baseball 4; Dance Committee 5,6.

(It) is a kind of integrity, if you look on every exit being an entrance somewhere else.

—Tom Stoppard

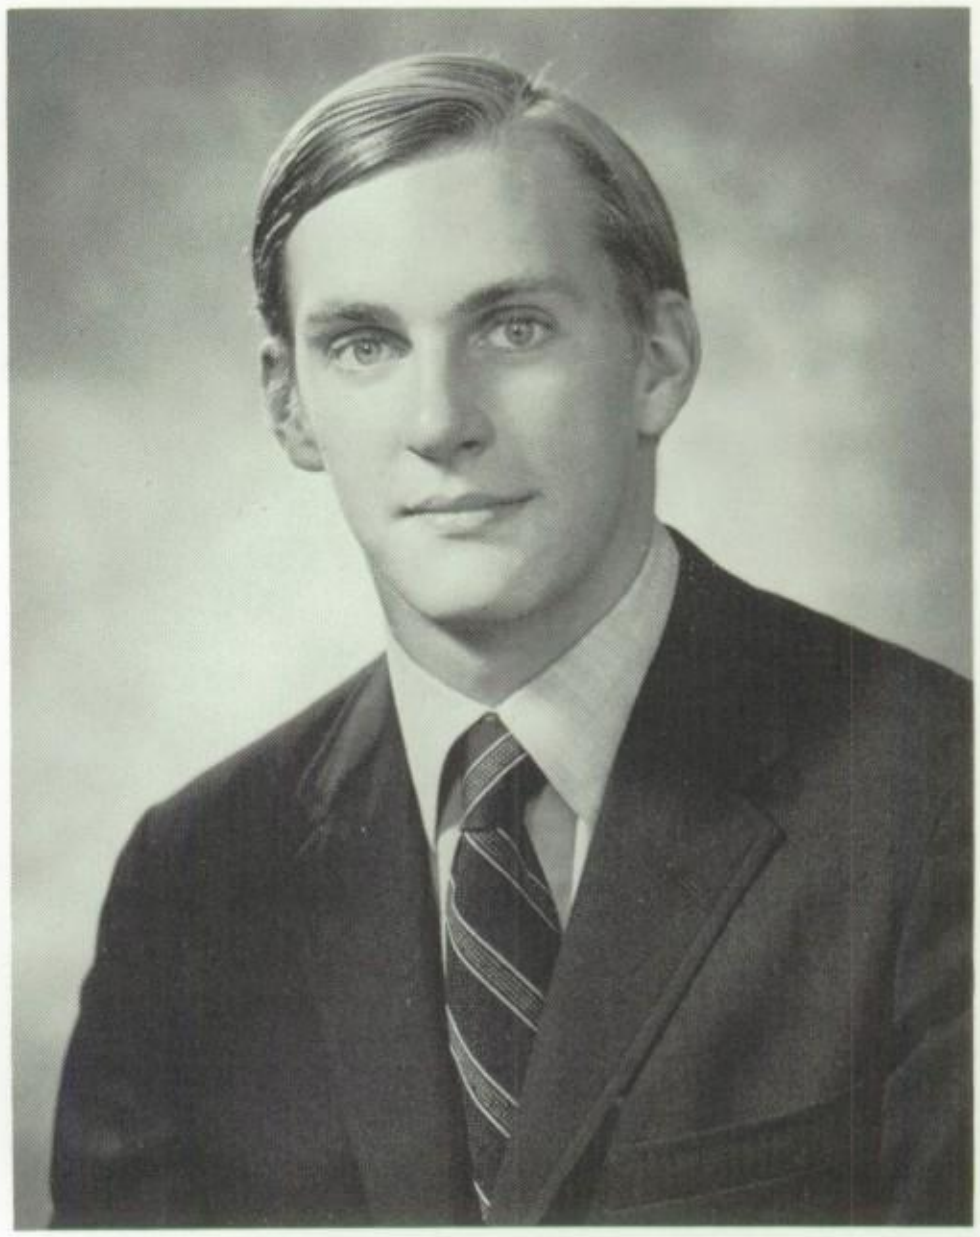
A day at Landon never seems to end without the sound of Paul Griffith's boisterous laughter or without the perpetuation of some amusing antic. His jovial attitude is not left outside the classroom door as many are; instead his levity even seems to brighten the mundane rigors of a period. It is common to see Griff in the classroom nodding in agreement with a knowledgeable smile on his face as the master's words enter one ear before leaving the other. And the masters love it. Maybe it's that personal charm of his that lures people to his house for spontaneous parties whether he happens to be home or not. In sports one can make out his robust form thrashing away in the interior line of a football game or pounding a soccer ball down the field with unequaled brutality. Whether it is in a school room, a social gathering, or a hole in the line, Paul's is always a welcomed face. In addition to this image, Paul has been recognized to be worthy of a great deal of responsibility. He has assumed leadership of the St. Genesius Society and holds an important position on the Brown and White. All of these factors combined point towards an enjoyable and fruitful future for Griff.

FREDERIC JONES HALL

"Fred" "Okie" "Freed"

Entered Form Five

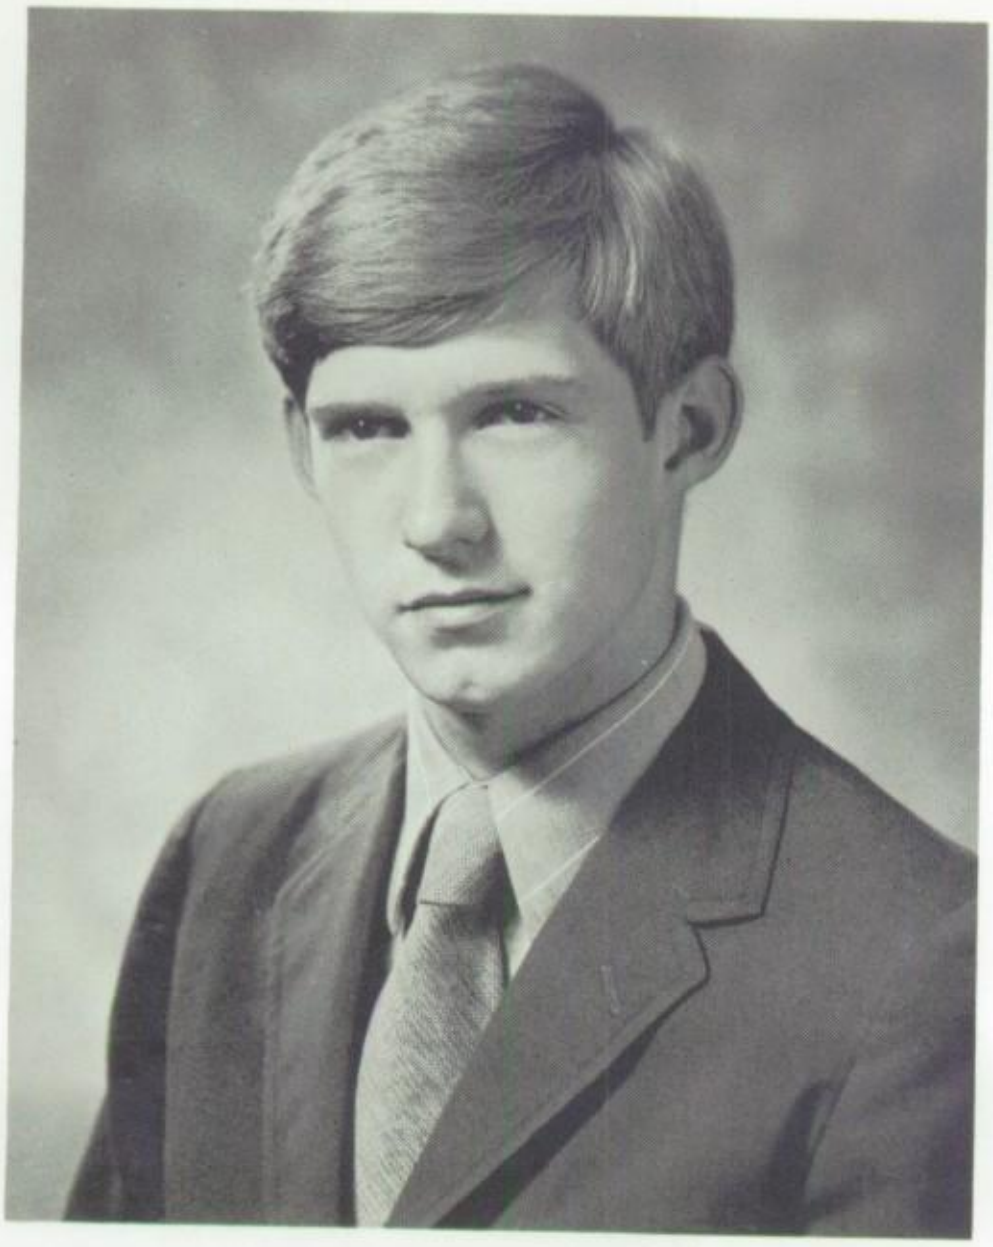
Student Council 6; Bear Club 6; Football 5,6; Track 5,6; Class Vice-President 6.



For he wishes not to seem, but to be, the best.

—Aeschylus

Out of the blue skies and oil fields of Oklahoma to the rigors of Landon society came this handsome Okie. Entering in the fifth form, this stranger rose to the heights of the vice-presidency of the class in one short year. Although it reads like a class "C" western, the story is true. After a few months Fred lost his Western twang (or perhaps we became accustomed to it), but he never let us forget that he was from Oklahoma and "proud of it." However, Fred quickly fit into the high society of Georgetown, and he made use of the many clothes shops to keep himself stylishly attired—his clothes reflecting his origins in suede and dust colored garb. Fleet of foot, Fred was a first string defensive back for the varsity and a mainstay of the track team. But all of this ducks his most important quality, for he is a most genuinely likable guy. With a boyish grin and a practically irrepressible good humor, he has won the admiration of his classmates. It has also stood him in good stead with the females but has made his study halls rather unruly. The host of some of the biggest and best parties and a true credit to Landon, it is a shame that he did not arrive sooner.

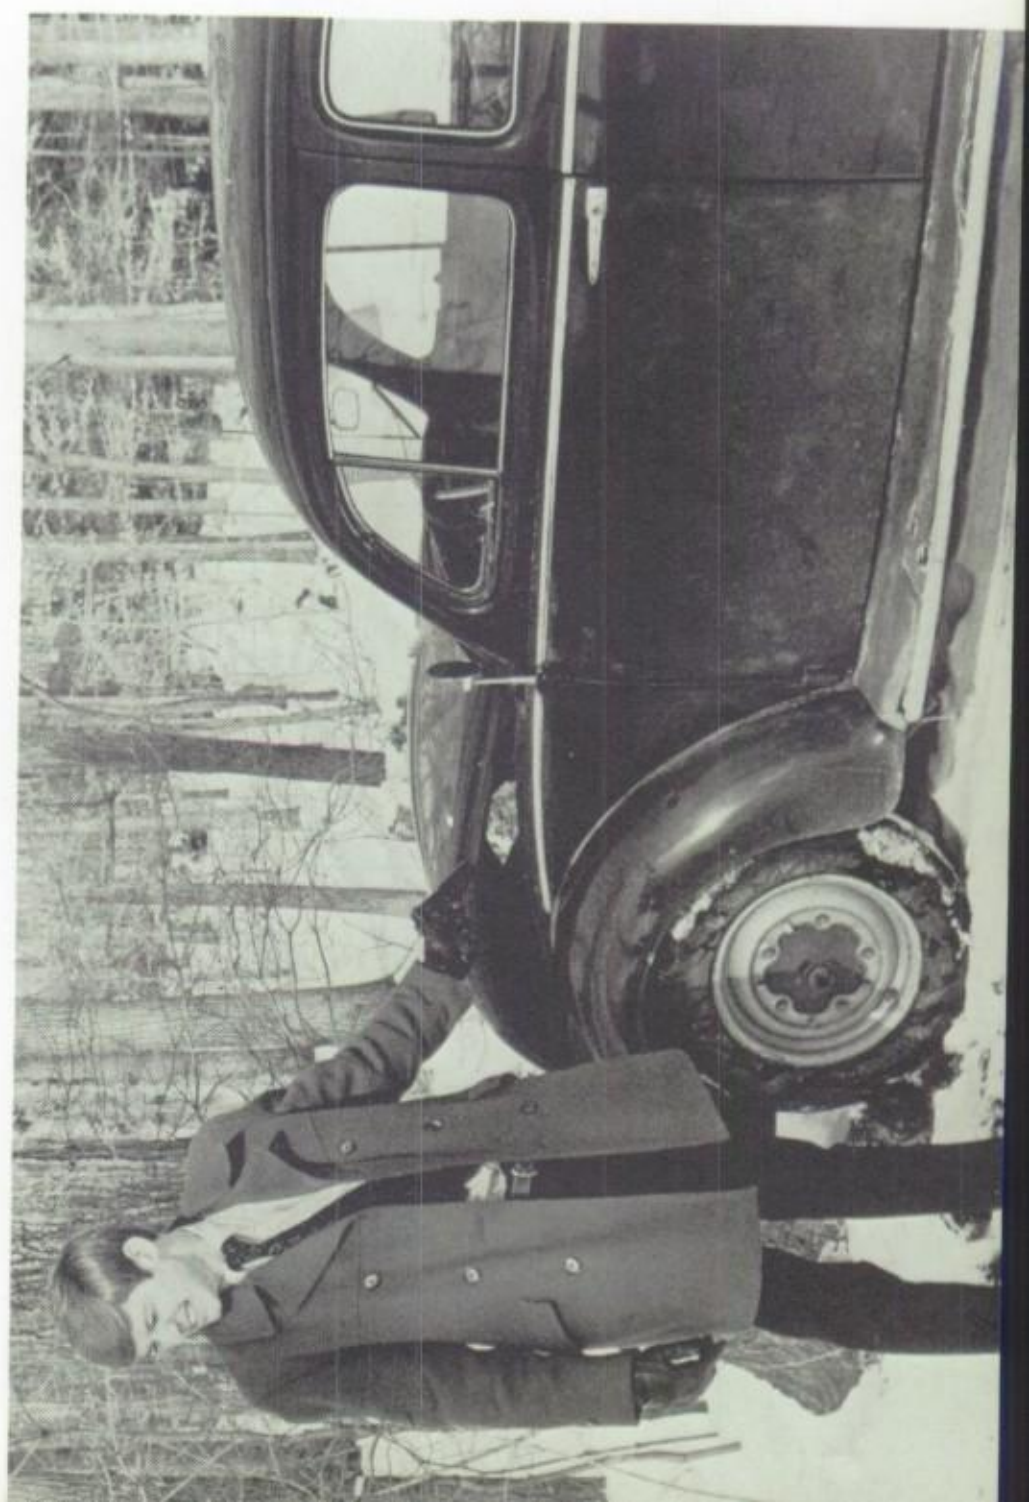


GEORGE DENMAN HILL
"Jerry"
Entered Grade Five
Student Council 3; Secretary 3; St. Genesius Society 6; Audio-Visual Committee 6; Glee Club 5; Student Teacher 5.

Nothing risqué, nothing gained.

—Alexander Wolcott

Every morning at five minutes to nine, all on campus are suddenly aware of a roar from the front gate. Middle Schoolers stop in their morning rush and stare, stunned, at the machine causing the racket. The lucky ones will see the "Black Bomb" expertly downshifted and maneuvered around trees, rocks, and students into the sixth form parking lot. From behind the controls of his '56 Volkswagon climbs Jerry, to the surprise of some who might have expected to see Junior Johnson or Richard Petty. But they have achieved their popularity on the stock car circuit whereas Jerry has earned his among his classmates. For a long time the uncontested president of our form in the lower grades, Jerry, with his amiable personality, has always contributed to any group or gathering. But he is probably best known for his subtle humor which always makes him the center of attraction at any party. As he departs, many will be saddened, for as Jerry leaves, Stone Ridge's image of the ideal male also leaves.



GEORGE GWYNN HILL

"George"

Entered Grade Four

Prometheus 5,6; Student Library Committee 5,6; Football 6; Wrestling 4,5,6; National Merit Semi-Finalist.

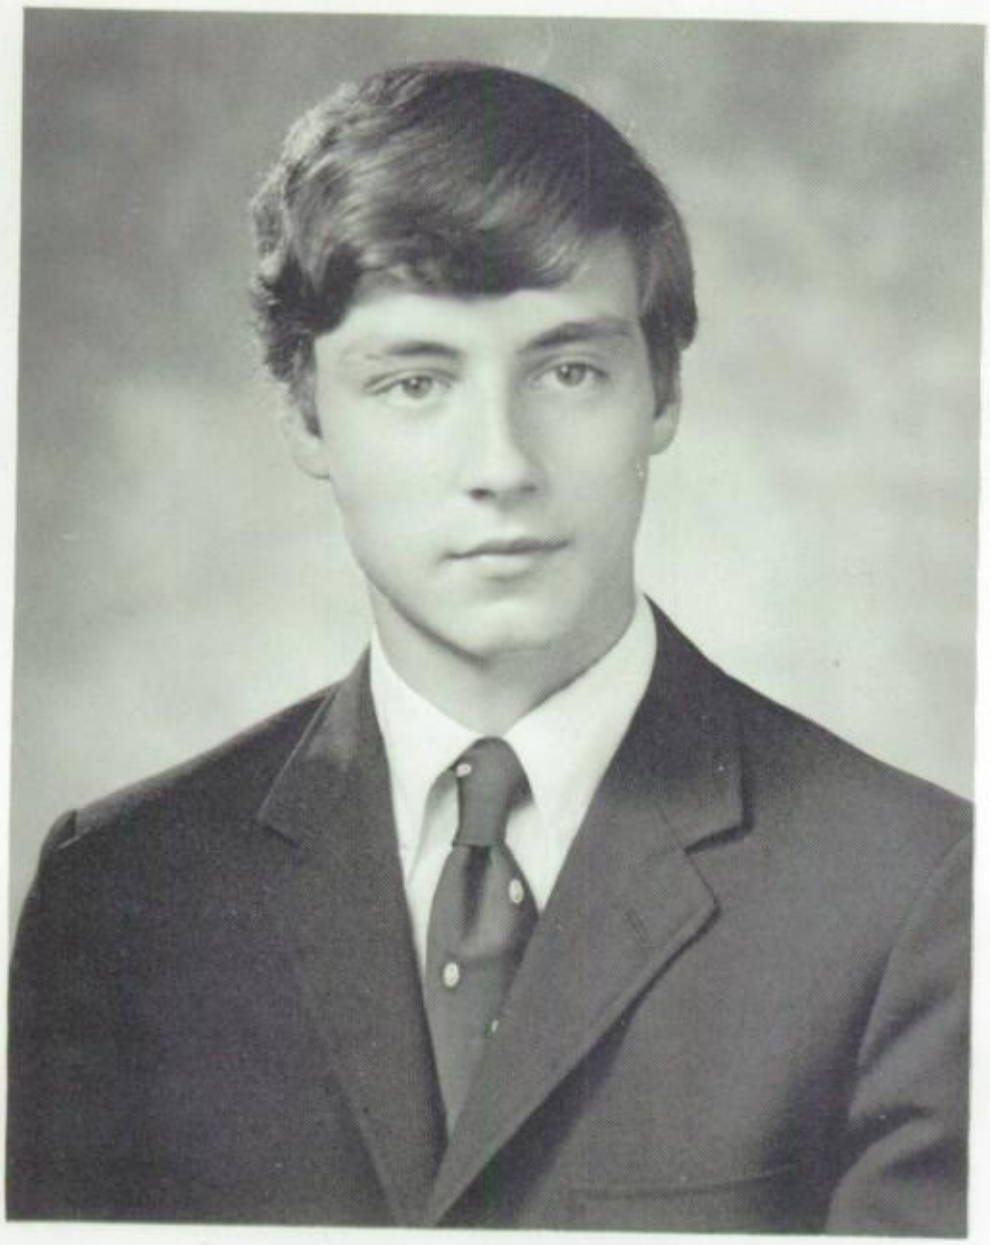
One must imagine Sisyphus happy.

—Albert Camus

George Hill has the unique distinction of being the only American student at Landon who has cultivated a superb British accent. Puffing on one of his many $50 pipes, George can often be seen looking over his inferior students while he assails them with puns which are far above their feeble minds. Actually, however, on approaching George with a favor or question, his classmates find him to be friendly, interested, and willing. He shows great concern for world problems and for the problems of life in general; however his answers to these questions, which usually deal in the philosophy of the absurd, tend to further confuse his classmates.

George also has a more violent, more athletic side which he displays in wrestling. Through wrestling, George vents his frustrations which in turn gives him a more level-headed outlook on life. His work with and for the team again shows his willingness and school spirit.

All in all, George has rounded off his personality and interests very nicely. He has developed both his intellectual and physical sides and topped them off with a cultivation of some of the more pleasant of life's offerings. Thus Camus and half-nelsons are both as familiar to George as his beloved tobacco.



Nothing is so deceiving as a photograph.

—Frank Kafka

BRET BURLIN JOHNSON

"Bret" "Who"

Entered Form Five

Yes, Bret Johnson lives, for behind that quiet, unassuming exterior is one of the most genuinely interesting people ever to hit Landon. Although not known throughout the school as some of his classmates are, Bret nevertheless has left his mark on all who know him. For example, seeing Bret writhing in what must be termed as the most free form of dances, who has failed to marvel at Bret's unique dancing ability? Or who can forget his equally unique driving style as he plummets through the traffic oblivious to all except the sounds of the Led Zeppelin on the radio? Even on the infamous Bush-ball circuit, who can suppress a gasp of admiration as the Brain steps onto the court attired in a complete (down to the old rancid socks) Pistol Pete Maravich uniform? And yet throughout all his daily adventures, Bret retains a tenacious spirit of individualism as evidenced in his refusal to buckle under to the system. Through it all, he keeps a studied cool that contrasts sharply with the volatile cynicism so often attributed to some of his peers. As Bret leaves Landon, one can't help but feel that he will make his own impression on an unsuspecting world.

RANDEL KEITH JOHNSON
"Randy"
Entered Grade Five

Brown and White 6; St. Genesius 5,6; Audio-Visual Committee 4,5,6; Student Library Committee 4,5,6; Rifle Club 3,4,5,6; Photography Club 6.

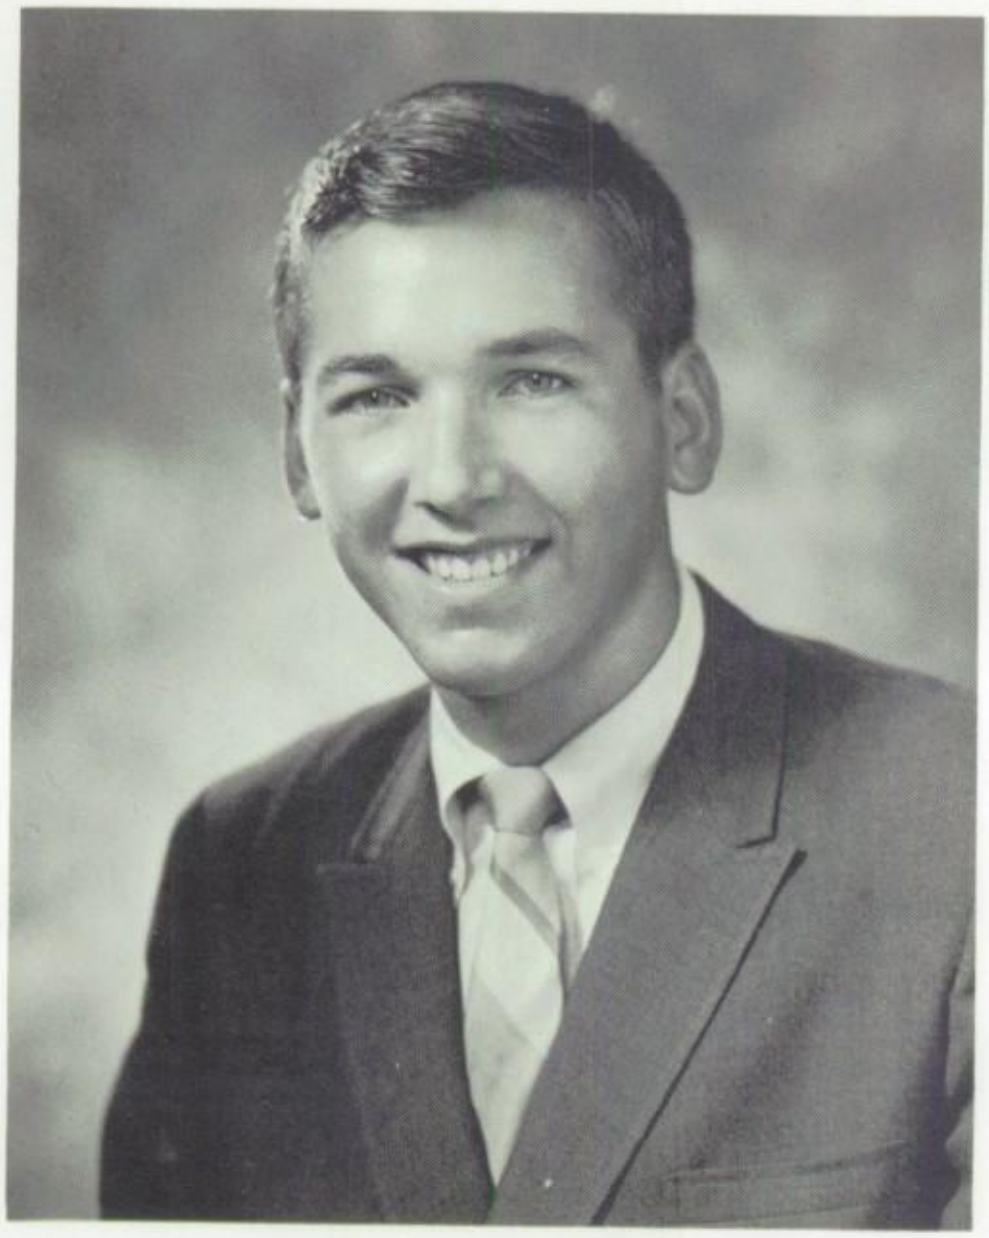
I'd rather sit alone on a pumpkin that be crowded on a velvet cushion. —Thoreau

Randy is one of the avid outdoorsmen of the form. Among his interests are rock-climbing, trapping, and hiking. Regardless of the season, Randy has something to do. In the winter, he dons his ice-skates and leaves all others behind. When the weather is warmer, he pulls out his newest acquisition, in inflatable rubber raft.

In school Randy passes the day with thoughts of summers in Glacier Park. He is one of that group who go out west each summer to work for little pay, but exciting experiences in the outdoors. This in not to say that Randy has no interest in school, however. He achieves good grades in history and English with amazing facility. Not so in the mathmatical subjects, but he does succeed through dogged work.

But Randy's most outstanding characteristic is his sense of humor. He is continually in good spirits. He can be heard singing while struggling through a chemistry test or leafing through a Monarch—merely for its critical value, of course. We are all sure Randy will succeed in life, but he'd better quit that singing.



I have never let my schooling interfere with my education.

—Mark Twain

STUART DODD KEARNEY III
"Dodd"
Entered Form Six
Landon News 6; Golf 6; National Merit Letter of Comendation.

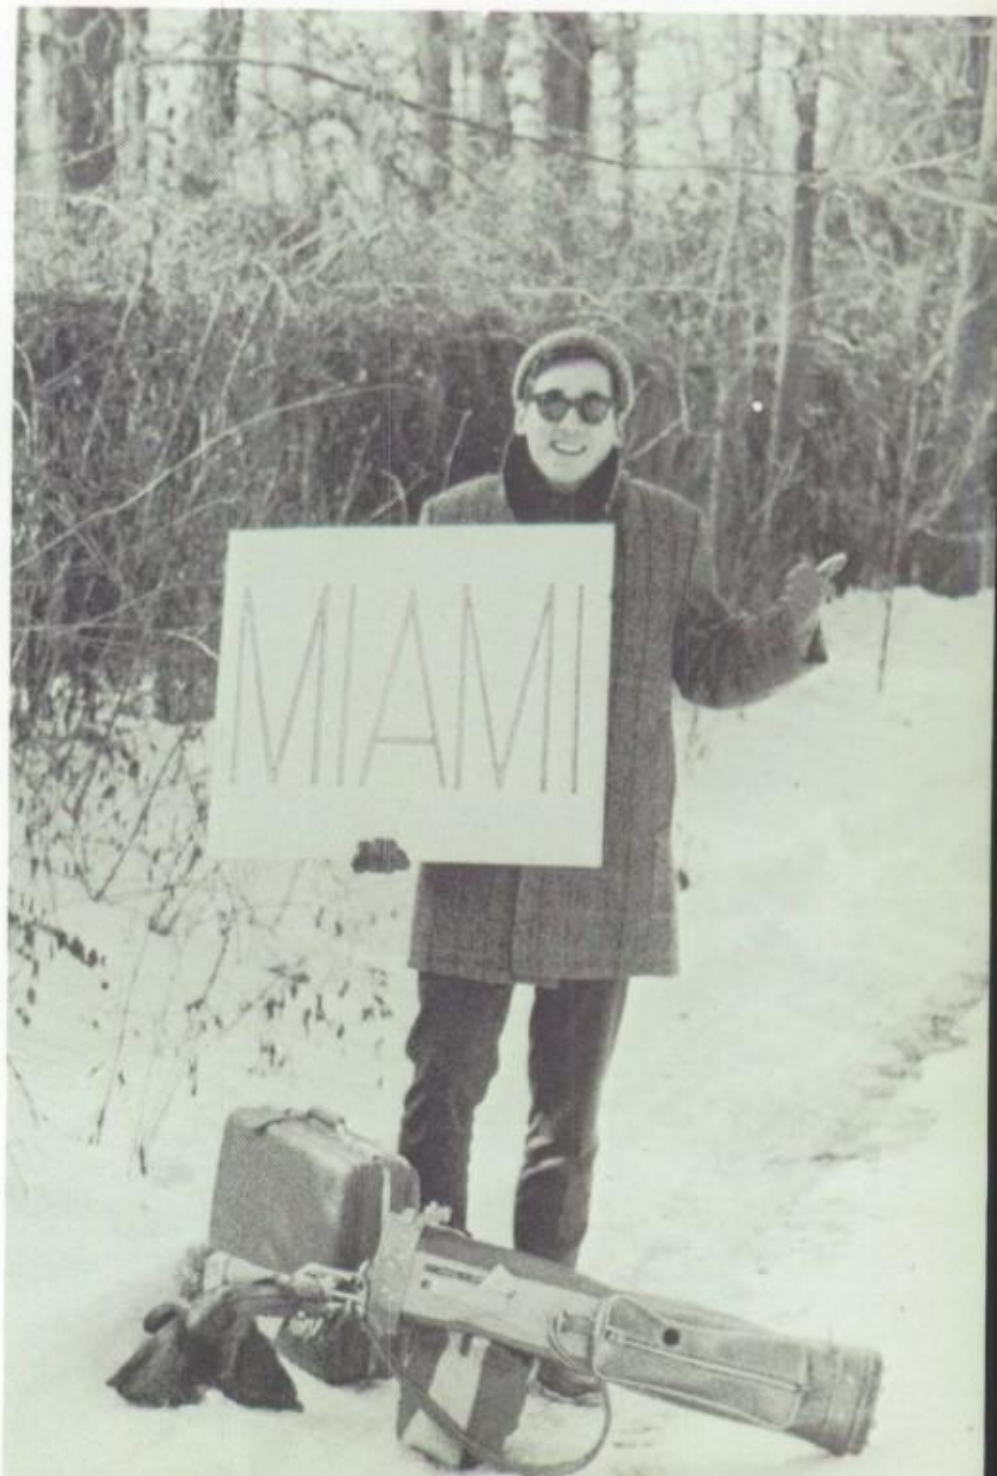
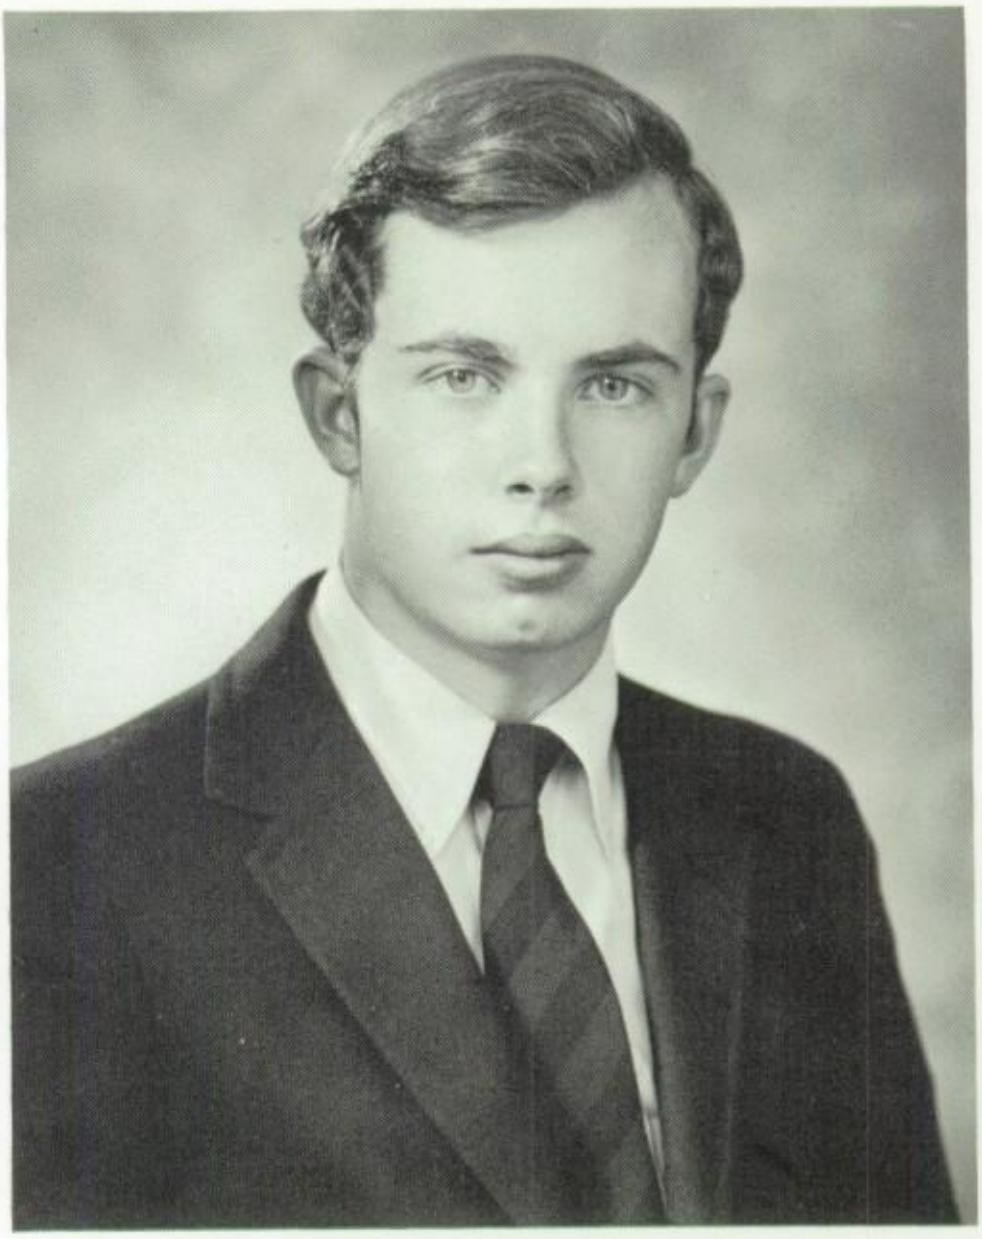
Unlike the old adage, Dodd came in like a lamb and will go out like a lion. Presenting himself to the scrutiny of his classmates, he made a sizeable figure, with a potent ability to express himself and make himself heard. A personable guy with nothing against anyone, he was quickly and easily assimilated into the form. His casual outlook on life, coupled with his easy going manner, makes his company pleasant and his presence welcome. His viewpoints on the school are as refreshing as his outlook on world affairs. His awareness and depth of perception add greatly to his character. Although sometimes his ideas have appeared strange to his classmates, this only makes Dodd more interesting, and he has been well accepted in the form as a whole. In addition to his strong personality and responsive intellect, he brought to Landon a valuable expertise in golf, in keeping with the tradition of Sixth Form entries.



RICHARD CROMWELL KELLOGG JR.
"Rick"
Entered Form Three
St. Genesius Society 5,6; Clef Dwellers 6; Glee Club 4,5; Student Library Committee 6; Photography Club 5,6; Student Teacher 5,6; Dance Committee 6; National Merit Letter Of Commendation; Basketball 6, Manager; Brown and White 6.



The best to you each morning.
—Kellogg's of Battle Creek

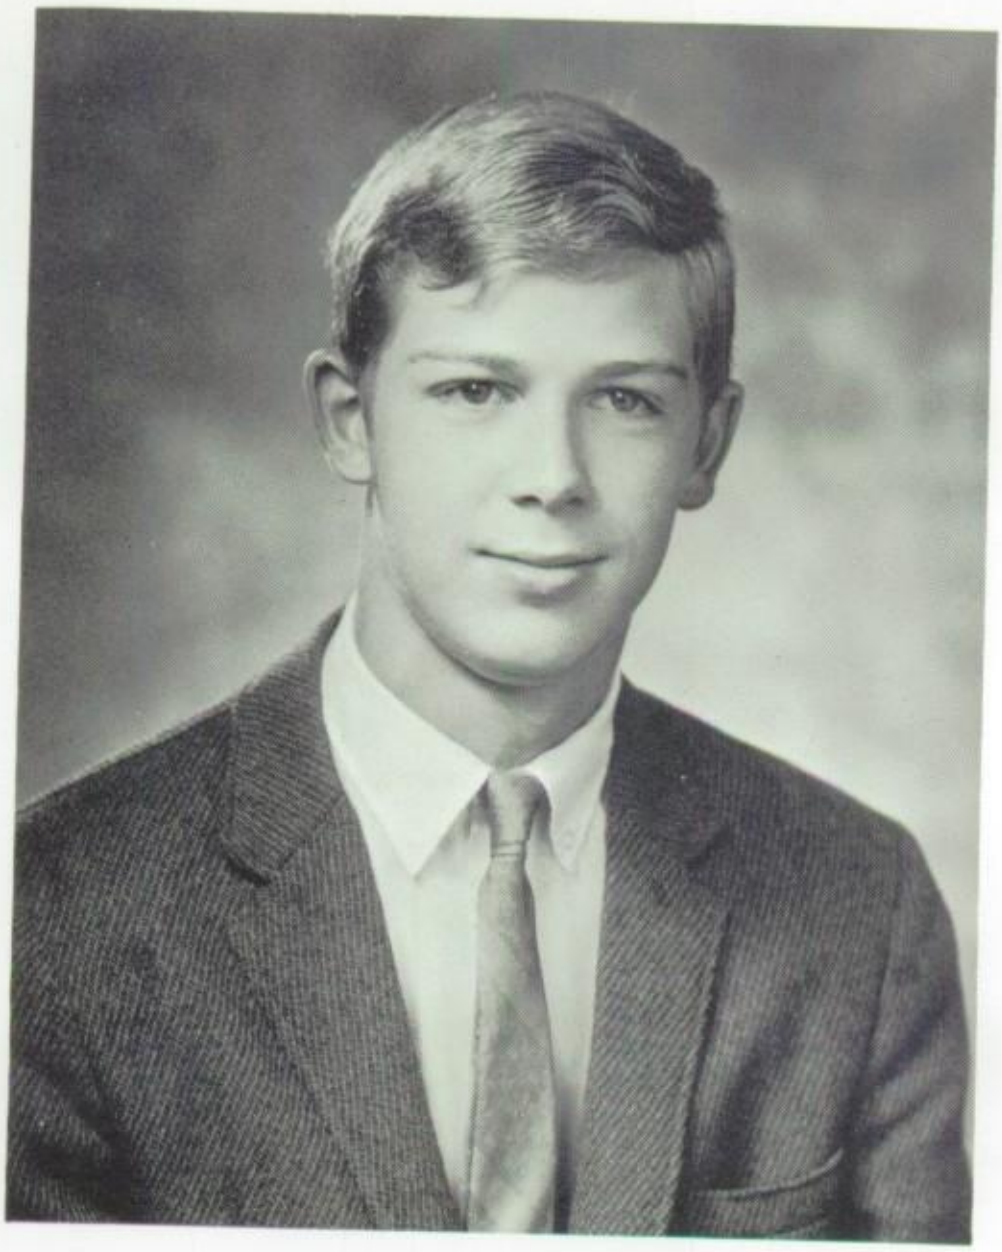
Who was that hobbling down the hall on crutches shouting "Whoopee" around twelve-thirty last night? That was Rick. He sprained his ankle again. As those who know him well would admit, Rick possesses quite a jovial and aimiable personality; yet he is often quite stubborn in his ways. For instance, he will never admit to being wrong and probably will never turn in a composition on time. Nonetheless, Rick is one of the more intelligent and tenacious members of our form. He excels in the scholarly world of class rank and college boards, and even though he outshines many people in his class, his reservedness and shyness often hide this verity.

Rick also plays a prominent role in other facets of Landon life. Whether it is as a Clef Dweller, as a study hall proctor, or in the rather inglorious position of managing athletic teams, he is there helping in any way he can. This tenacity and general personality will certainly bring him success and respect in later life.



Happiness is not a destination. It is a method of life.

BURTON RANDALL LANGHENRY

"Randy" "Lang"

Entered Grade Six

Glee Club 4; Cheerleaders 5,6: Captain 6: Student Library Committee 6: Rifle Club 6: Spring Track 3,4,5,6: National Merit Letter of Commendation.

The possessor of a timid smile that belies his virulent rightist leanings, Randy is one of the form's most radical, and at the same time most stable, members. Perhaps an epitome of the straight teen-ager of yesterday who loves to hunt and feels great patriotism, Randy possesses a wholesomeness that is a refreshing change from the arid winds of sophistication swirling through many people at Landon. Though generally quiet, he proves his vocal ability, as well as his school spirit, as head cheerleader.

An admirer of George Wallace and the South, Randy is a stalwart of old customs. The only time that he ever really gets high is at Spring track; the Langhenry Leap, which may have served as the model for the Fosbury Flop, has bewildered high jump opponents for years. An enthustiastic captain in the intramural leagues, Randy showed his capacity to enjoy the simple pleasures of life. Indeed, a gun, a dog, and perhaps his Cougar may well be all that Randy desires; it is not often that one finds such a person in suburbia.

WILLIAM TAFT LESH JR.

"Will"

Entered Grade Six

Brown and White 5,6; Junior Editor 5; Editor 6; St. Genesius Society 5,6; Dance Committee 6; Student Library Committee 6; Cum Laude 5,6; Cross Country 5; Glee Club 4; Debating Club 4,5; National Merit Finalist.

Moderation is the straightest path to mediocrity.
—W.T.L.

One of Will's better-known characteristics is his unmatched thoroughness in completing any task assigned to him. He can take a small composition assignment, and, after thirty or forty hours of work, submit a manuscript that would serve as a master's thesis at any college. His determination to make every job he is assigned his best has brought him many academic honors. His sense of humor, unappreciated by most of his classmates, must be deep and far-reaching, for he can find cause in his various classes to laugh at many of his teachers' comments which would otherwise go unnoticed by the masters and classmates alike. In his lighter moments, his delight in practical jokes keeps some of his closer friends on their toes, but the aspect of Will that will best be remembered in the future is his superior motivation and perseverance, which have given him a record of accomplishment that he will doubtless never outlive.

GEORGE LEFEVRE MAHONEY

"George"

Entered Grade Six

Brown and White 5,6; Business Manager 6; Clef Dwellers 6; Glee Club 4,5,6; Dance Committee 5,6; Debating Club 5; Student Library Committee 4,5,6; President 6. Philosophy Seminar 6.

George, along with his other very good characteristics, is well-known for his depressed moods which usually come about after he has failed another math quiz. George has incredible luck at this, even though he is far from inept at math. The only thing is that when George fails, it's funny. There is just something about the way he says, "0%", when asked about his grade, that breaks everyone up, including George, which proves that George's depressions are not so much depressing as funny. This humor also extends to athletic endevors (the only way anyone loses to George in tennis is if he is too busy laughing) and in his extra-curricular activities.

If this book is published, it will be due in a large part to George. His responsibility and leadership show in his crucial position as financial manager of The Brown & White. George's ambition and willingness led him to participate fully in this and other activities such as Clef Dwellers and in the Presidency of the Library Committee. Again George's humor helps to ease tension on the staff when a deadline threatens. If asked his opinion on anything, George can be counted upon to come back with an answer that is always frank, sometimes shocking, and always funny.

"Some will always be above others."

Emerson

A dark limosine pulls up to the dorm. Out steps a tastefully dressed young man, just returned from a weekend trip to his hometown of Dallas. He is thoroughly sophisticated and assumes the marked bearing and manner of a gentleman. And yet, like the gentleman, he avoids any outward demonstrations of ostentation or condescension, except infrequently in anger. And yet despite this aristocratic outer appearance, Rick has made himself excessively easy to get along with and demonstrates great devotion to his friends. In extra-curricular activity, Rick is more than willing to spend his leisure time, giving up the excitement of dormitory life for the drudgery of typing. Indeed he is one of the few Yearbook board members who actually devoted himself to his job. This devotion to friends and to work, combined with his gentlemanly bearing, make Rick one of the brightest prospects to graduate from the depths of the dormitory in years.

Jim is known throughout the school for his athletic and academic abilities which are equal to the best of the class, but he sets himself apart from these others by his hardhitting methods of conversation and association. He is ruggedly honest with himself and with others, a fact which compels him to say what he thinks without consideration of polite social codes. It is an admirable quality to a certain extent and can frequently contribute a rough humor to his classes—at the masters' expense. But his bluntness has also been at his own expense, for it occasionally causes an alienation of some of Jim's classmates—the loneliness of the long-distance runner. Above all Jim is an individual who can completely disregard the opinions of others. This demonstrates a strong character and honesty with himself and with others for which so many strive.

Risk! Risk anything! Care no more for the opinion of others, for those voices. Do the hardest thing on earth for you. Act for yourself. Face the truth.

—Katherine Mansfield

As a Landon student Scott is unique in that he is the only one whose staying in the class was voted on. He is also unique in his attitude, for beneath his exterior ferocity lies a pacifist's character. Despite his tendency to experiment in free-style automible re-modeling, to destroy everything he can reach, to hit everybody he sees, and to throw himself at opposing soccer players, he is basically an easy-going, non-violent person, as is evidenced by his having to be lured out of early football retirement. His driving record indicates that he is probably the worst driver in the class, due to the fact that few of his classmates want to get nowhere as fast as he does, and fewer make as many abrupt unintentional stops.

When not engaged in his immortalizing practices, Scott appears as an interested if somewhat sleepy student. He rarely completes his homework on time but considers this of minor importance because he is more concerned with the theory and meaning of problems, not with inconsequential facts. He will probably go far in the world with his capacity for grasping the overall picture.

This place is going to change A lot in the next couple years AND I think you can, AND must play A vital role in its transformation. so to quote JERRY RUBIN, "Do It!"

mcconn

Dave has undergone a rather significant change over the past two years. Because of a fall, Dave had to give up what was a promising career in football (although he still maintains a good physical condition), but ever seince he fell out of his tree, or a tree, he has assumed a much more responsible demeanor, and ever since his return from France, he has developed a sauve and sophisticated air. Actually these changes weren't all that drastic, for McConn has always been responsible and well-respected in a quiet unassuming way, it was just that these qualities were not fully appreciated until recently when his classmates recognized his leadership and elected him President of the Student Council. Dave has made a good president and set a good example as evidenced by the few honor code cases.

Also Dave was imported from France, along with a near-mastering of the language, a sophisticated air which is not false but genuine and friendly, which, when added to everything else, shows that Dave has earned a new respect from the student body.

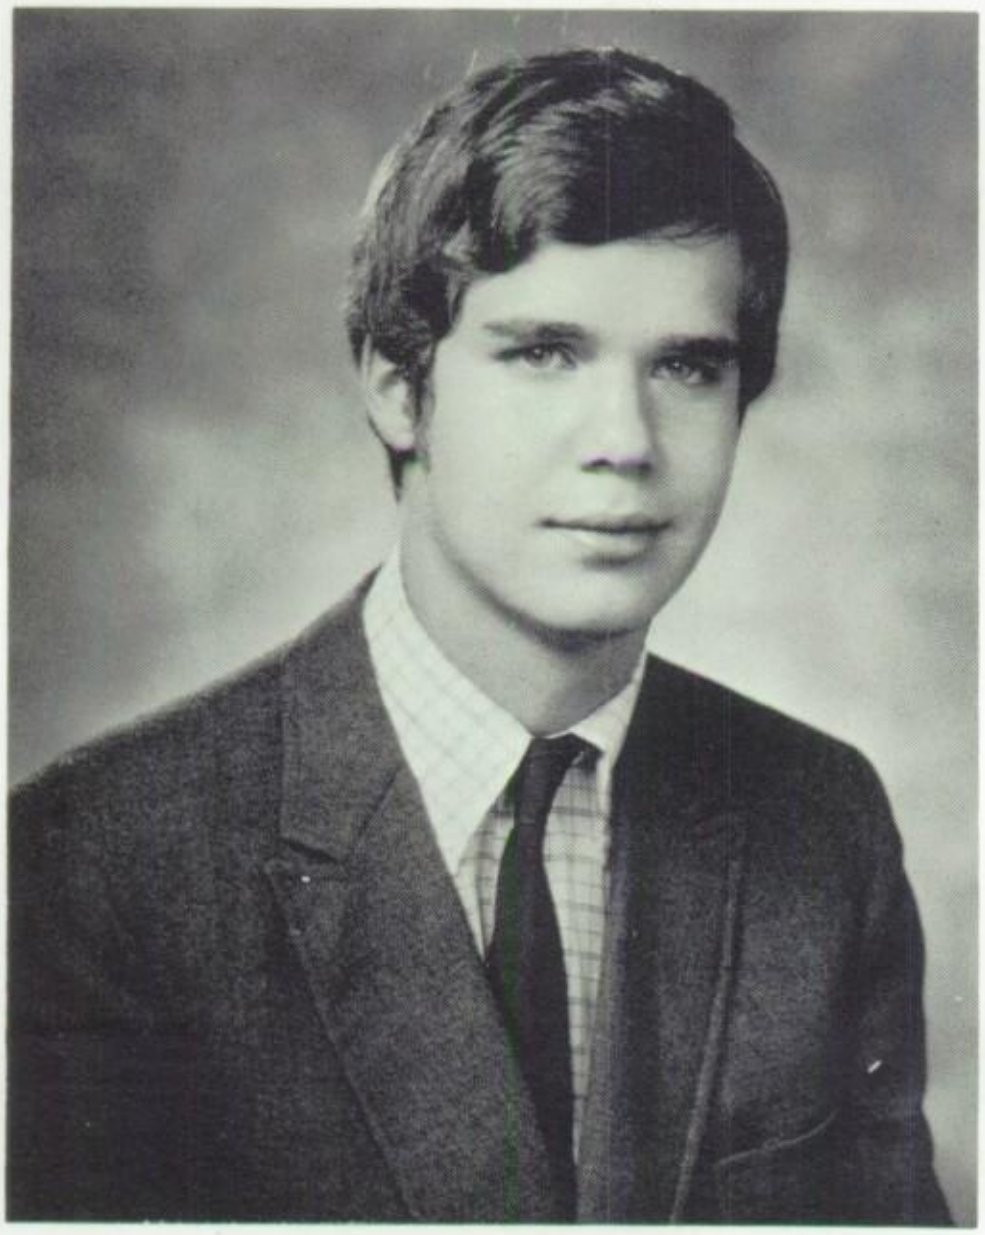
"Paddle your own canoe."
—Anonymous

A gradual change took place in Jamie during his fifth form year: white-water canoeing, which previously had occupied most of his time, became secondary to his intellectual pursuits. After flirting with Ayn Rand, Jamie began to formulate his own theories about such varied subjects as the images that people project to each other and the threat of communism to western society.

Yet basically Jamie was no different. He still possessed unshakable self-confidence and a coolly rational outlook on life, mingled with a romantic's appreciation of nature. He still had a sarcastic, probing sense of humor, and he still said exactly what he felt about himself or anyone else. He was still the best 157 pound wrestler that Landon has ever produced, as well as a fearless linebacker on the football team. Indeed, Jamie will always tackle any undertaking fearlessly and in the manner he pleases – which will generally be the right way.



JOHN DICKSON McLEAN

I accept chaos.
Bob Dylan

John is more than just the quiet, pleasant person that he appears to be from a distance. Convinced that each person is infinite and that everyone would be one entity except for the limits which people set upon themselves, John is a philosopher, romantic, and guitar player of sorts. Like many people who keep to themselves, John is capable of experiencing supreme levels of emotion. Thus his mood of depression can cause him great loneliness; yet even when depressed he retains the popularity that has characterized his career at Landon.

Highly sensitive to those around him, John has shown his concern for fellow students in his membership in the Student Council. As Music Editor of the Newspaper, a post which he himself created, he has greatly helped to generate student interest in a wide range of music. Imaginative yet uncertain of his creative powers, John has shown both a subtle sense of humor and a capacity to write intelligently. John is perhaps replete with hidden talents which even he does not know of.

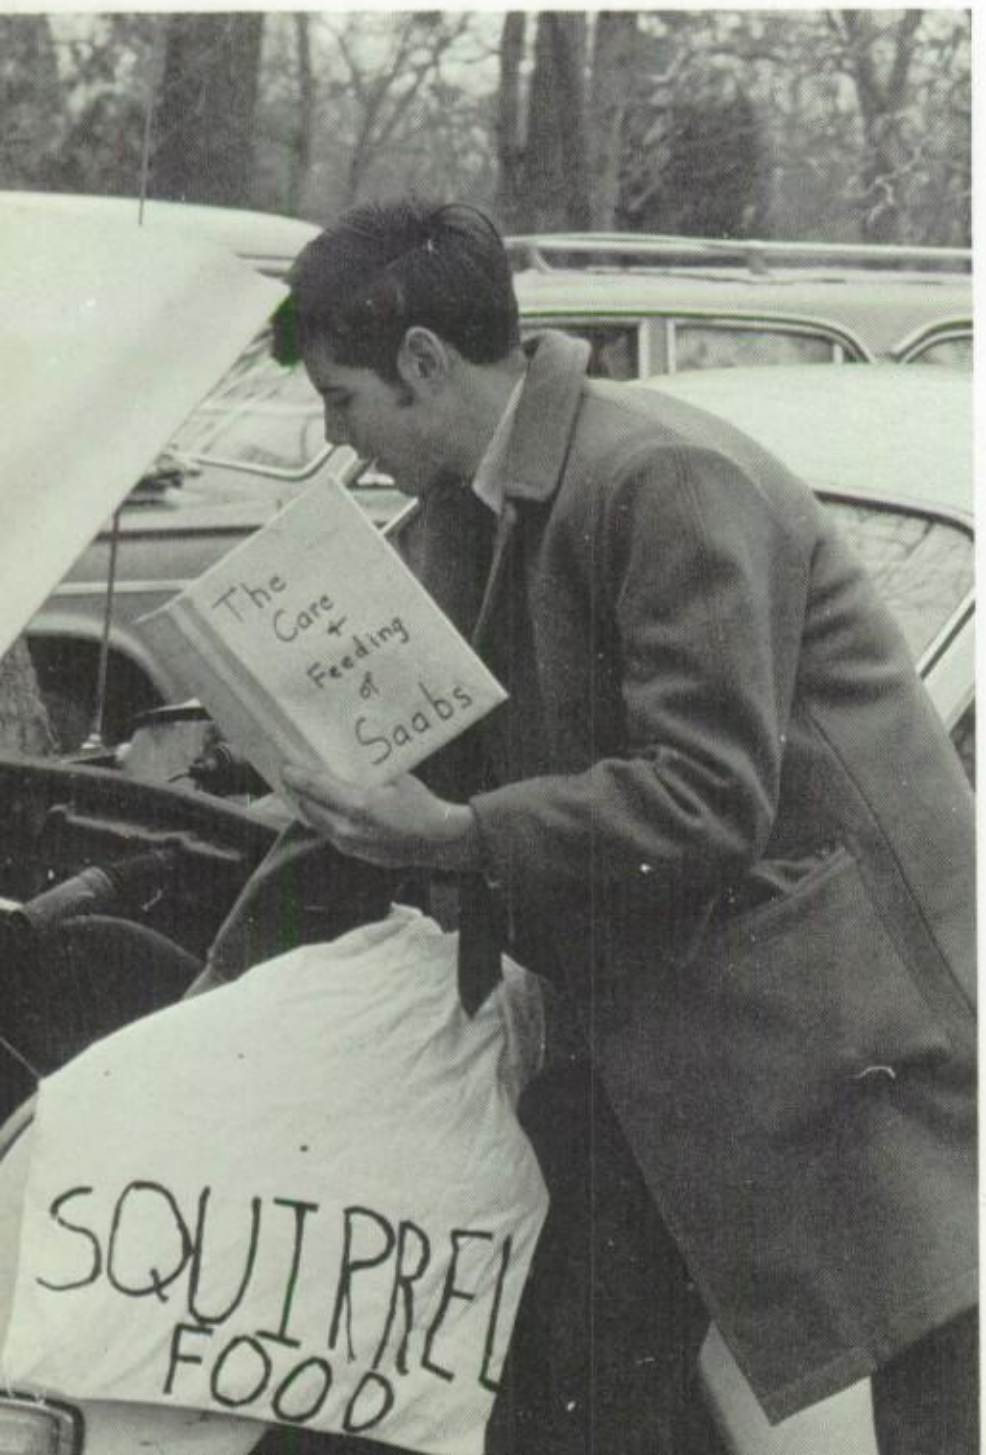
Life is a dream, a little more coherent than most.

—Pascal



Bob is one of the enigmatical members of the form. He has not tried to become one of the crowd (or of any crowd, for that matter). His individuality does not spring from any feelings of superiority or inferiority, for he is a very warm and personable guy, once you get to know him. Rather, his separation is based on a desire to live his own life the way he wants to, without imposing himself on anyone else.

Bob is one of the most avid and loyal supporters of the intramural system. Taking part in "touch" football, intramural basketball, volleyball, as well as the rifle club, he has become one of the mainstays of each team. His other extracurricular activities include the loyal support of the Senators, and he is rumored to be Landon's frisbee champion. Bob has geninely enjoyed himself in all of these activities, and that's the important thing. He knows what he wants to be in life: a veterinarian. It is our conviction that he will be a good one, indeed.

"But sir, I just couldn't come to school Monday and Tuesday; the snow was just too good to waste." Leaving the master grasping for a reply, Ben settles comfortably into his chair to rest from his weekend adventure and recharge his energies for the one to come. This somnolent classtime attitude is surprising to his classmates who know that Ben maintains a good and consistent average. Some accuse him of actually studying while at home, but we all know that the only books that Ben condescends to read are mountain-climbing manuals. He provides endless amusement for his friends with his many tales of high adventure which he has experienced or read about. Ben chooses his colleges by his own criteria which have not been included in the college catalogues. From him we can receive information about the number of ski runs, good mountains, and large forests near any college in the country.

Furthermore, it is easy to tell when Ben is approaching, either from the rattle of his current car or the clump of the hiking boots he wears. Ben serves to bring a touch of the wilderness to London. His classmates may be content to become doctors or lawyers or dentists, but never Ben.

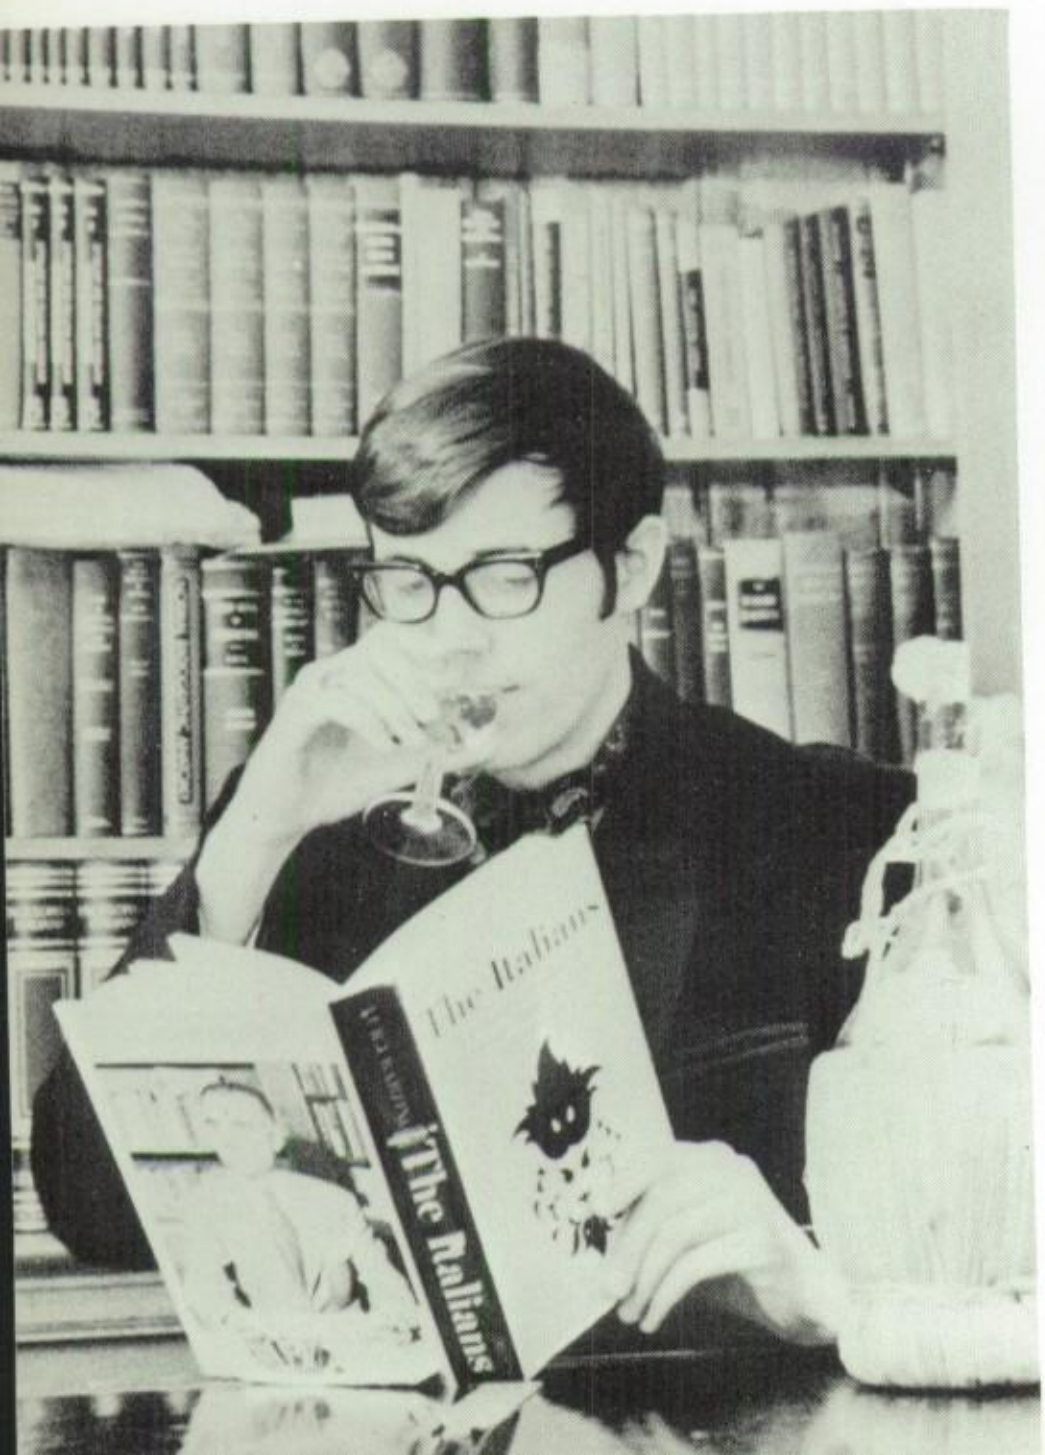
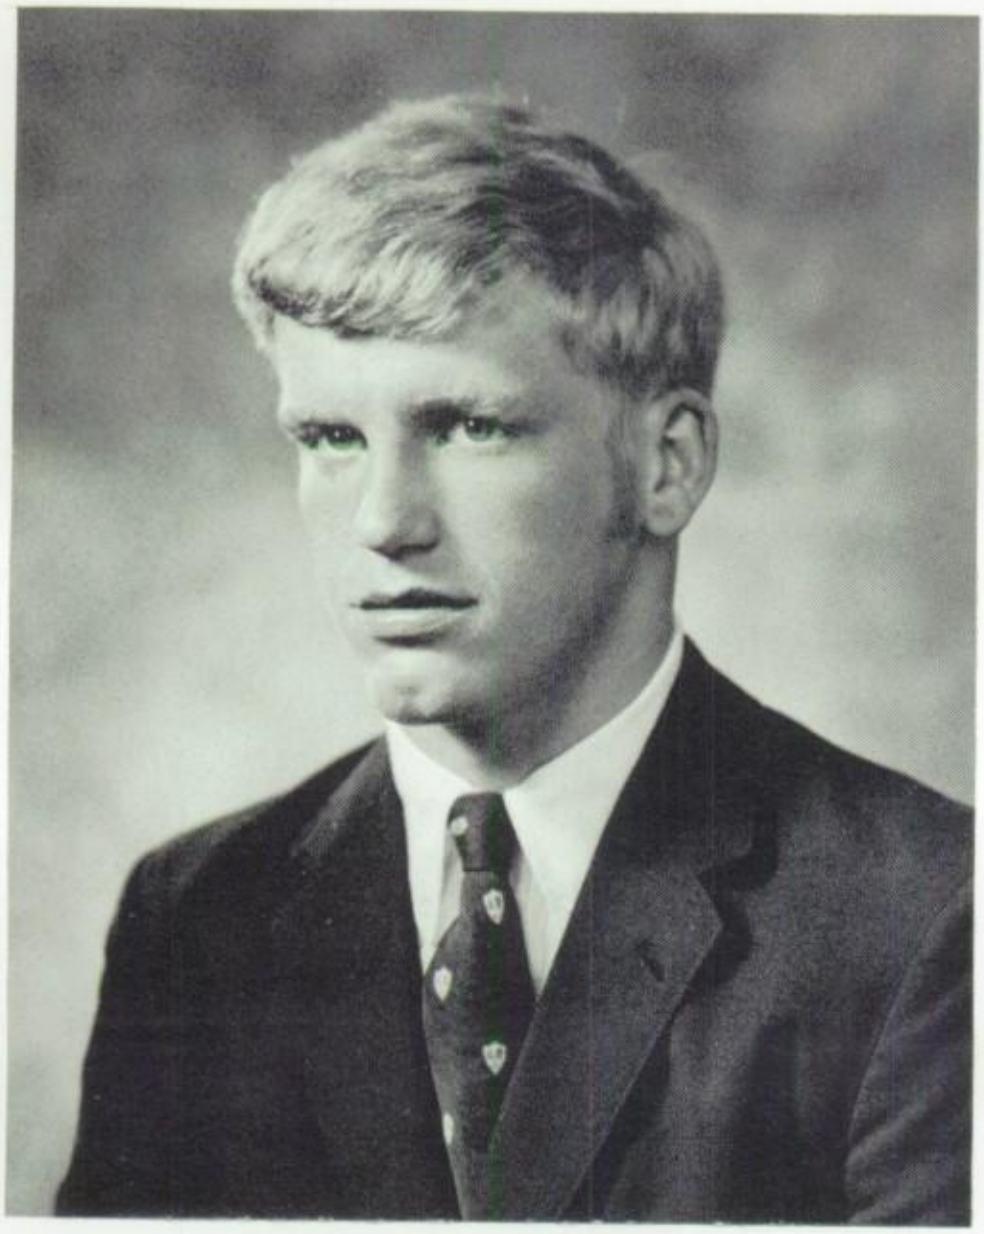
"A man who has not been in Italy, is always conscious of an inferiority."
Samuel Johnson



One usually thinks of an Italian as being very emotional and impassioned. This, however, is not the case with Paul. Rather his outer personality is characterized by seriousness, dedication, and quietness. Thus he is somewhat unassuming, and this is taken by some, who know him only on the surface, as shyness or even a lack of personality. But Paul has a more outgoing and friendly side which he reveals to his closer friends. He seems to take everything seriously, and, at the same time, remains very sensitive and receptive to the feelings of others.

It is impossible for anyone to dislike Paul. His personality inspires trust, and therefore, after a succession of treasurers, he has been chosen to hold one of the most responsible positions in the class.

He will leave this school as one of its more mature graduates, and it would be hard to imagine him making anything but a brilliant success of life.



Aw, come on, fellas.

Bear Club 5,6; Vice-President 6; Landon News 5,6; Sports Editor 6; Dance Committee 6; President 6; Student Library Committee 6; Football 5,6; Co-captain 6; National Merit Semi-Finalist; Basketball 6.

As if everyone weren't already aware of the fact that Ken came to Landon from the "Land of Pleasant Living", he often wears an absurd Baltimore Oriole's baseball cap at least three sizes too small for him. Yet it isn't just any one team, but anything and everything from Baltimore that is the "best in the world." Ken is, for example, the Colts' most avid fan (though his devotion hasn't yet reached the point where he wears a Colts' helmet to school in the fall). But even when Baltimore lost to the Jets, Ken never lost his irrepressible good humor—a quality which has gained him the respect and admiration of his form, evidenced by his election to the Bear Club after only one year at Landon. Ken has also shown unfailing dedication to school events. He was first string linebacker on the varsity football team, and he also called the defensive signals. Futhermore, Chairman of the Dance Committee is a thankless job, yet no one else could work harder nor with better spirit to get the job done. His biggest letdown was not being able to have the Chambers Brothers for the Final Dance. As everyone knows, they were performing in Baltimore that night.

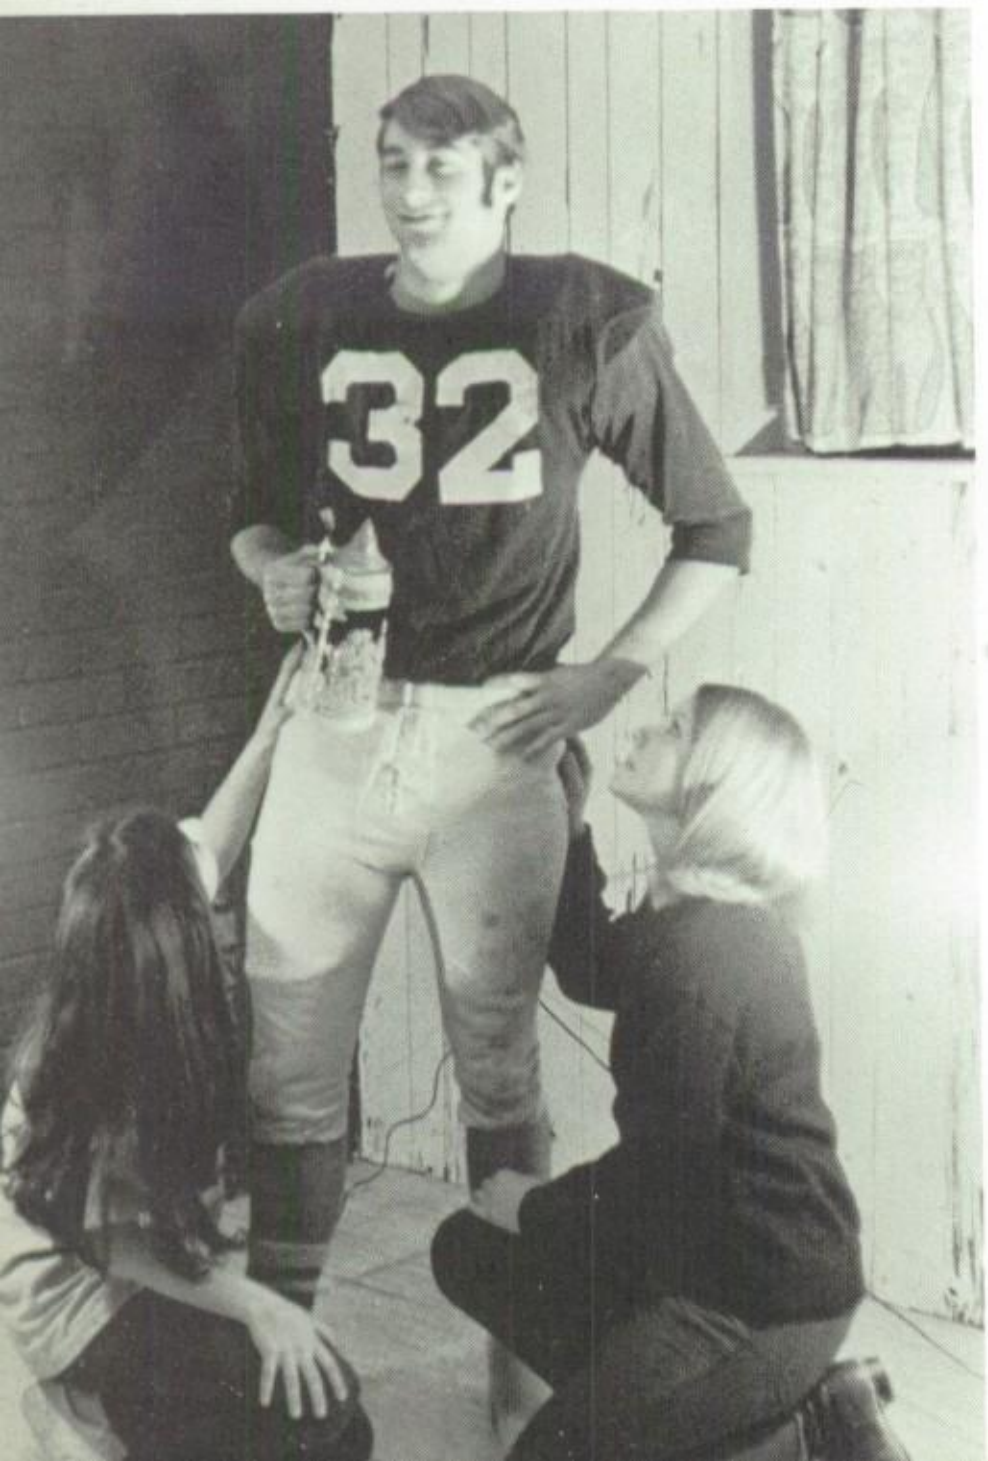
Self-confidence is the first requisite to great undertakings.
Samuel Johsnon



Every day at the sound of the second bell, the blue bomb bearing licence tags CSS may be seen streaking across the campus toward the sixth form parking lot. Although his perpetual tardiness is frowned upon by masters (and friends) his excuses are more than adequate. "Went to get shoes," at nine o'clock in the morning, or "The toaster broke," typify his logical explanations.

Emerging unscathed from the daily academic battles, Arthur meanders toward the gym. He always seems to be gracing one of the varsity teams where he can show his true colors. Landon's version of Joe Namath never fails to please the crowds. Arthur's devotion to sports is unquestioned, and in periodical fits of idealism he even maintains training. During the weekends one can always find Arthur at various social events, saturated in jovial spirits. His relaxed attitude and good nature prove a welcome relief at any gathering. Indeed, comic relief is one of Arthur's fortes.

Entered Form IV
Brown and White 6; St. Genesius Society 4,5,6; Dance Committee 6; Student Library Committee 6; Rifle Club 6; National Merit Letter of Commendation.

Because of his pleasant, sociable nature, Andy is accepted by the whole form – that is, he would be if it weren't for certain of his strange interests. For example, no one ever fools around with Andy in the locker room; incidentally Andy is a master of karate. An electrical genius–or enthusiast–Andy is an expert about Fisher sterio systems and has unveiled his custom designed model at the class parties he has given.

Andy often hides his considerable intelligence behind a nonchalant mask that is only pierced when calculous homework begins to pile up on him. Andy is in his true element contriving mystic special effects for St. Genesius productions. Some day Andy may design computer music to practice karate by; until then he probably will be satisfied projecting a pleasant exterior, without attempting the grand projects he may be capable of.

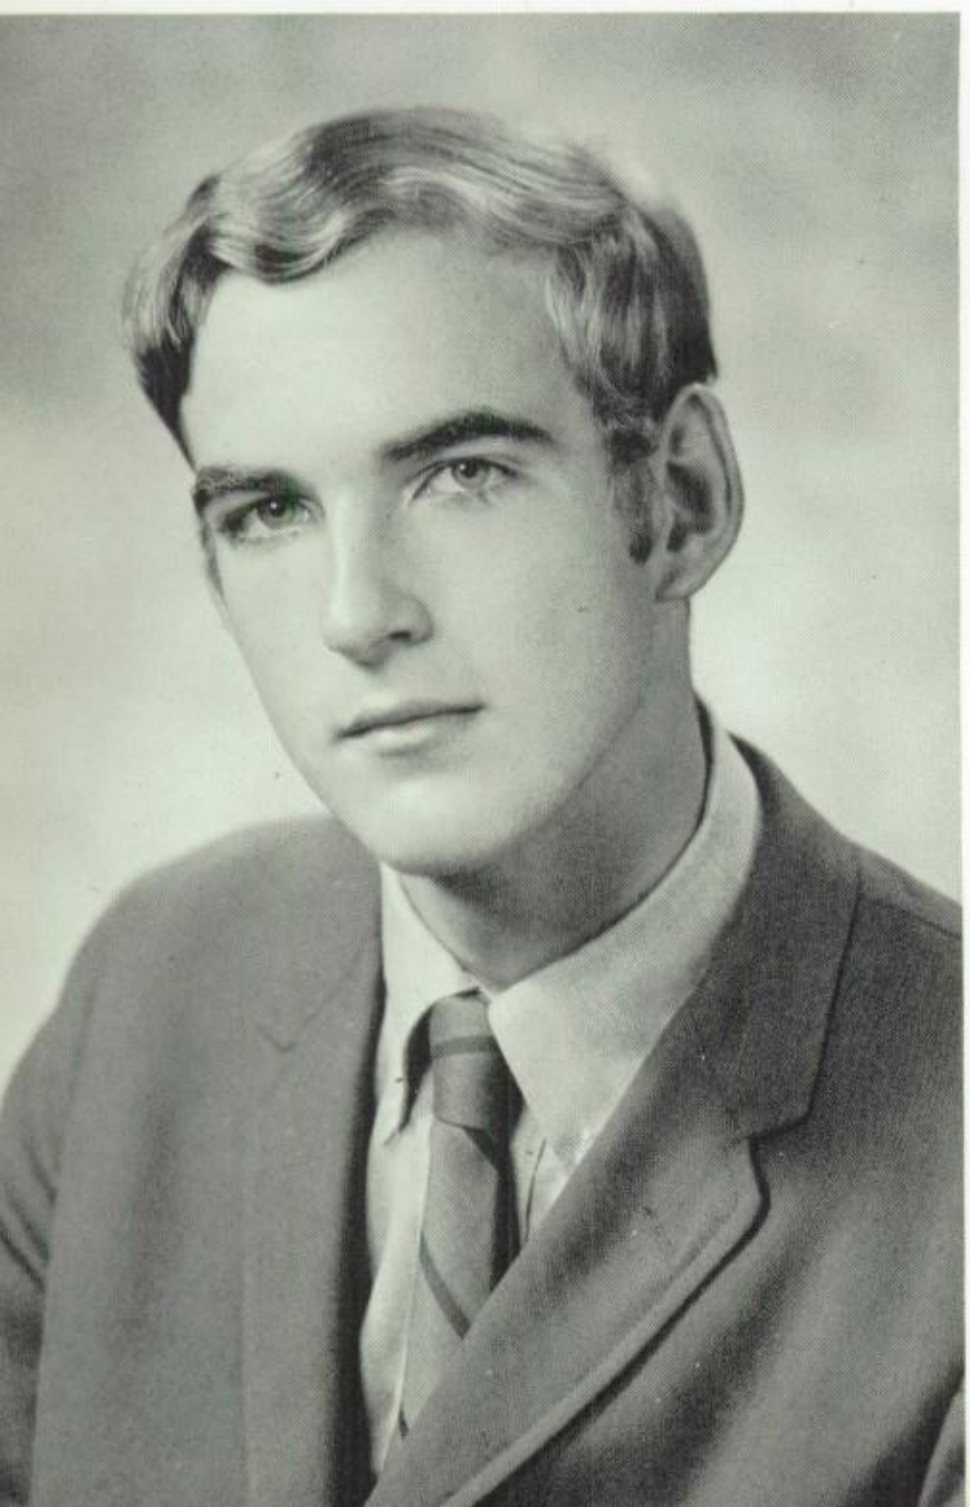
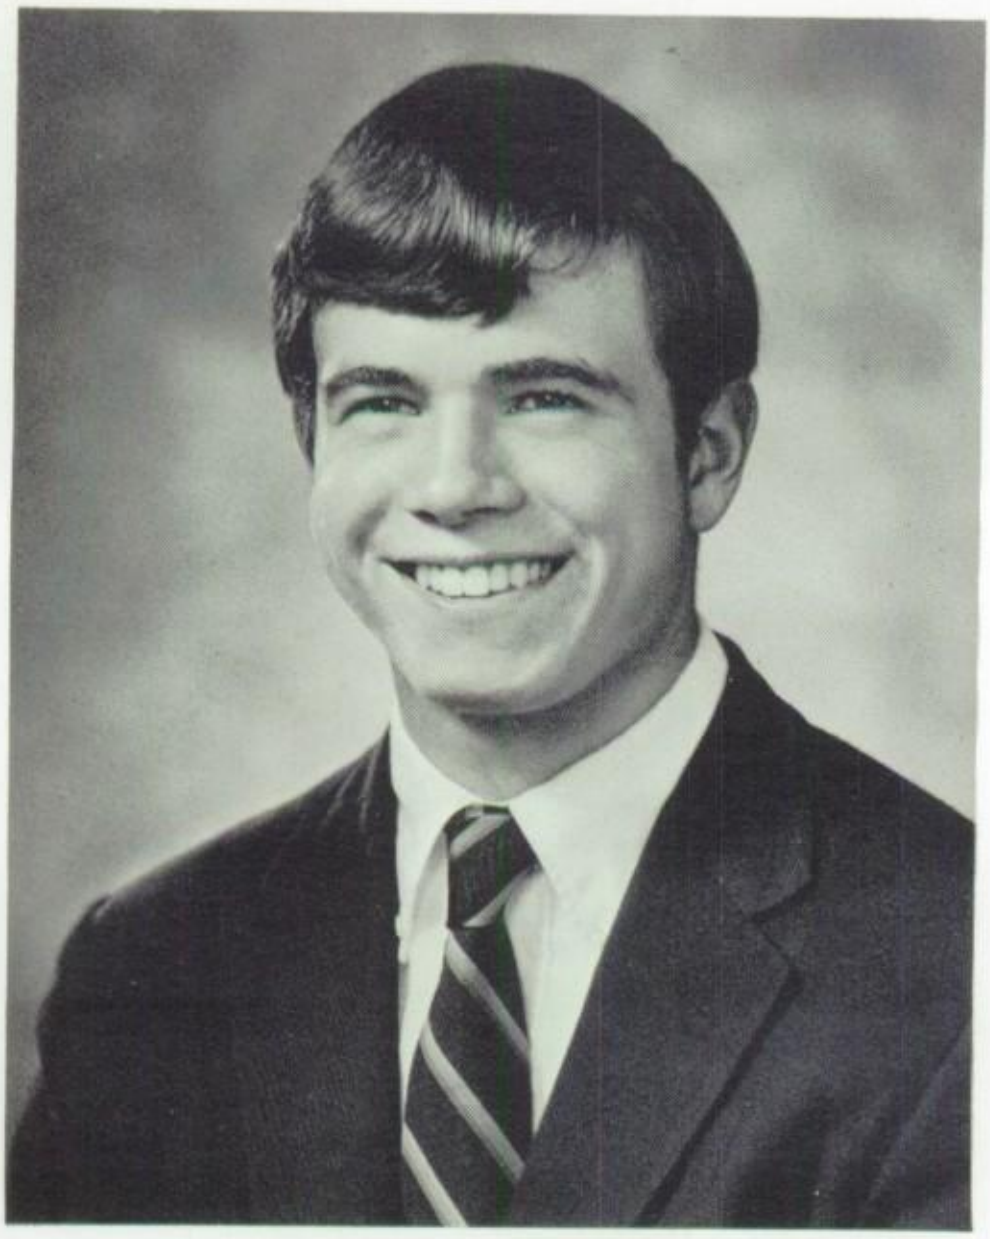
Goo Goo Goo Joob

—Lennon-McCartney



A sincere personality, a brilliant mind, and a quick wit, a triple-jump record, a good pun, a rejection of false values, of false society, a rejection of refined white sugar, a masterful editorship of Landon's outstanding pulbication, (which he has raised from the depths of literary scum), an incredible general average, a large group of friends, a misspelled middle name, and a strong reputation. The value of these factors is inestimable, but for the most part, they are only outward demonstrations of Jim's capacity for success, a capacity that is strengthened by his restlessness and subtle dissatisfaction which drive him on to further persuits. It is this drive that will . . . and yet Jim is the only one who can finish the sentence. It is he who will have to scratch his mark on the glacier of time; we can only recognize his ability.



THOMAS MARK TAMM

The smile that you send out returns to you.

—Indian Wisdom

Besides being one of the most popular students in the entire school, Tom has also shown a capacity for serious leadership that one wouldn't expect of someone with such a wide grin. Indeed, Tom's exuberance has earned him the nickname Young Tom. His desire to excel is evidenced by his performance on the athletic field; though he is quarterback in football and pitcher in baseball, his first love is basketball. Throughout the year he practices dribbling and shooting, after a football game or on a date.

Tom is not one who can be easily swayed by the opinions of others. Whether it is in political science class or in the lounge, he will adhere to his beliefs if he feels that he is right. For example, he still believes that the Beach Boys are the greatest group around. Despite such reactionary opinions, though, he has been elected class president for the last four years and this year was elected president of the Bear Club.

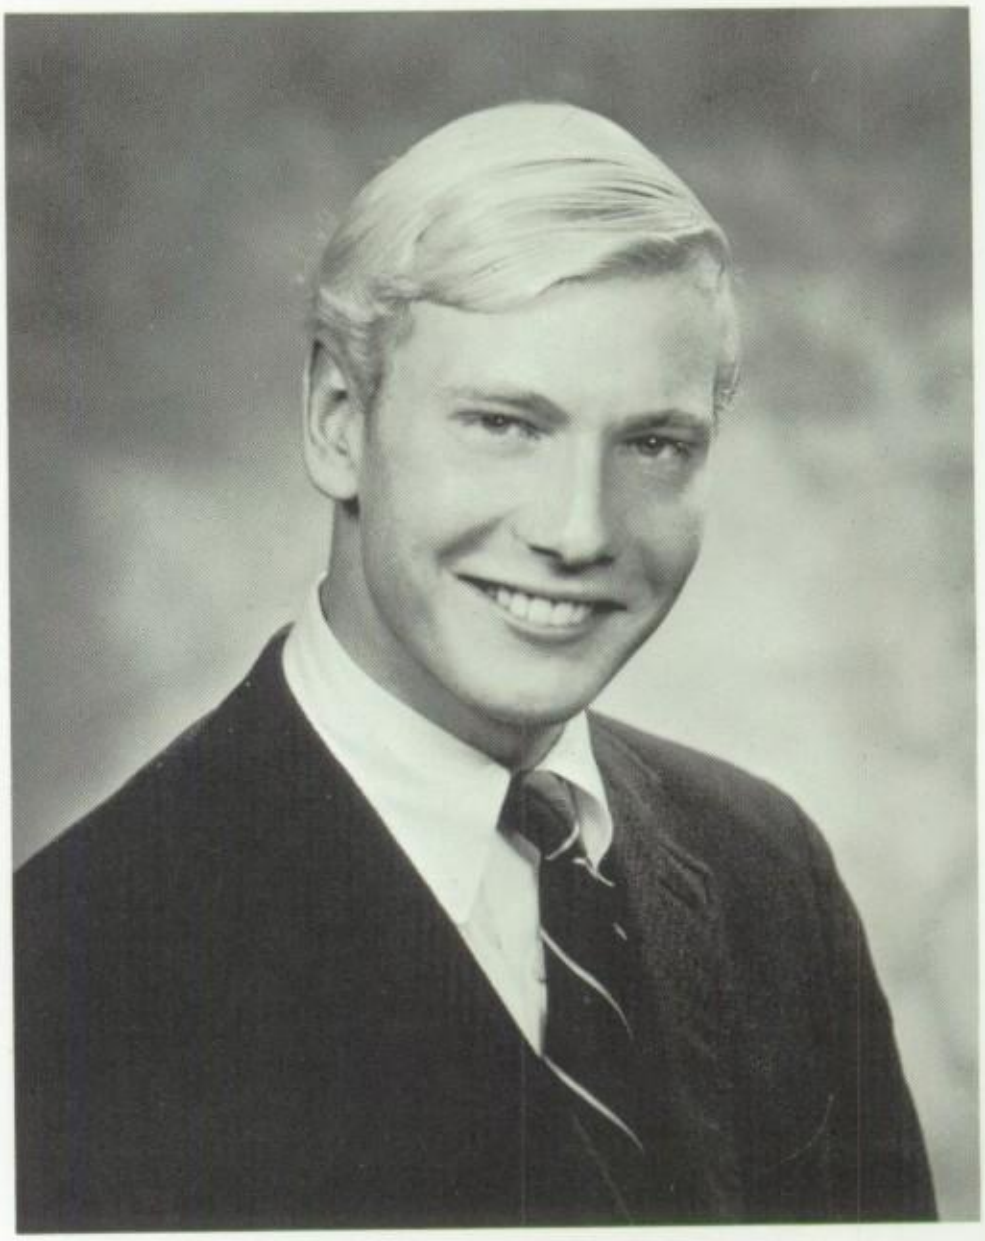
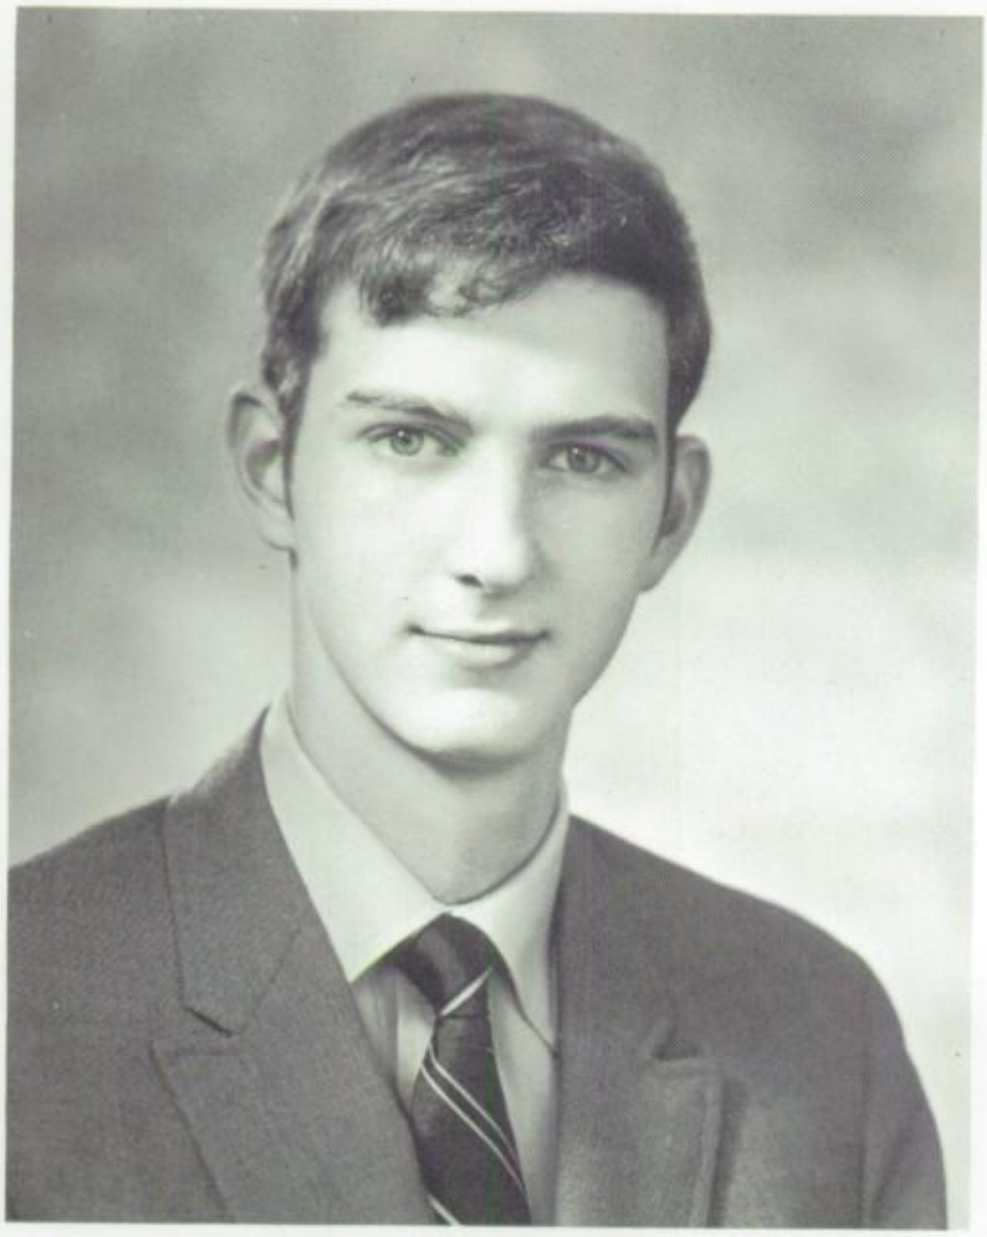
Hannes



There's the Amsterdam Dutch and the Rotterdam Dutch,
The Potsdam Dutch and the other dam Dutch.
—American popular song 1875

Hannes is our form's good Samaritan. He leaves the dormitory every morning ready to help, in his good-natured way, some classmate, any classmate, who might need a volunteer for some task, be it trivial or momentous. And so this year we find Hannes on the football team. Until this year a permanent fixture on the tennis courts, Hannes saw that the Varsity needed some help, and so he volunteered. But from his collection of activities it is obvious that he is in the habit of doing this sort of thing, hence his reputation for being outgoing. Our Dutchman is probably the only person in the class without a single prejudice—about anything. No trifle is too small, no person too insignificant to be encompassed by Hannes' amiable character. His devotion to the Golden Rule has earned him a position on the Bear Club. Indeed, Hannes is the epitome of the low-key leader, for he proves that people can be influenced in a gentle and persuasive manner.



Life is painting a picture, not doing a sum.

SCOTT McALPIN WATSON

Scott's good nature linked with a quiet naivety makes him remarkably easy to get along with; he actually gets mad at very few things, although he often pretends to be irritated. Scott is best known for his imaginative yet mathematically balanced plans of country estates, gymnasiums, and elaborate greenhouses, but inside Scott's gaunt, scarecrow-like frame, there lurks a remarkable ability to imitate others and the intelligence of a National Merit Finalist. Because of his reticence, however, Scott often conceals these talents. They surface in his hilarious imitations of various world figures (including Dr. Russo and Mr. Banfield), in his remarkable ability to wiggle his eyeballs and to do "his own thing", and in his apt but often satirical comments about himself and others, for Scott has the ability to laugh at himself, making him a pleasant and sociable companion.

JAMES JULIAN WHEELER

Entered Grade Five
Brown and White 6; Prometheus 6; Student Library Committee 5,6; Assembly Committee 6; Debating Club 5; Rifle Club 6.

Lose your dreams and you may lose your mind.
—Mick Jagger

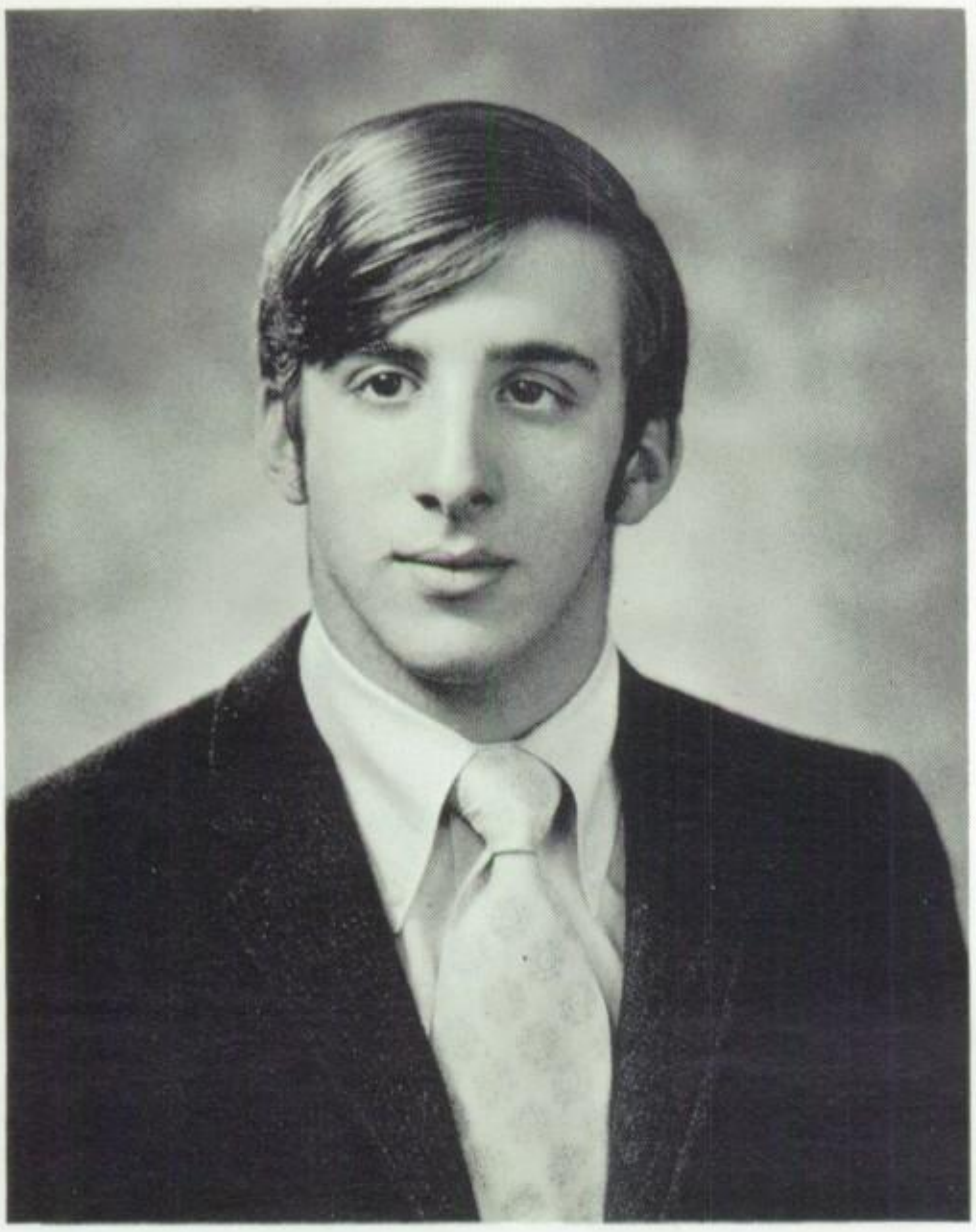
Jim's great imagination has aided him in his literary pursuits, and in all the endeavors of his life. Undaunted by established tradition, he is constantly proposing new ideas to update school ideals and practices. His plans for curricular revisions, improvements in the food situation, and revision of the literary publications of the school have, if not meeting with complete success, tuned the students and faculty to deep-lying, if seemingly insignificant, flaws in the school's atmosphere and facilities. Always putting the welfare of those around him before that of himself, Jim is greatly respected by those who know him well.

When he is inspired, Jim is capable of setting on paper the most ungraspable moods of the mind, and illuminating otherwise—unnoticed aspects of the human experience. Jim's good nature, flare for innovation, imagination, and altruism are sure to carry him far in a world, such as ours, which is so destitute of these qualities.



You always know when I've told a joke by the silence that prevails after it.

"Did you hear the one about the roof?" and then everyone prepares himself for another shocking punchline. John has acquired form-wide renown as a story-teller. Not restricting his abilities to any one field, however, John is one of the form leaders in the race to destroy cars, reaching the zenith of his career at Landon after totaling two. His scholastic abilities have not been overshadowed by his extra-curricular activities, though. He likes to write and is a major contributor to Prometheus (which is understandable considering that he is an editor of it). An excellent indication of John's promise is the fact that he was one of the first in his class to be accepted by a college this year. As John has shown in his numerous managerial duties, he always manages to manage.

By the way, if you would like to know the punchline, "it is over your head."

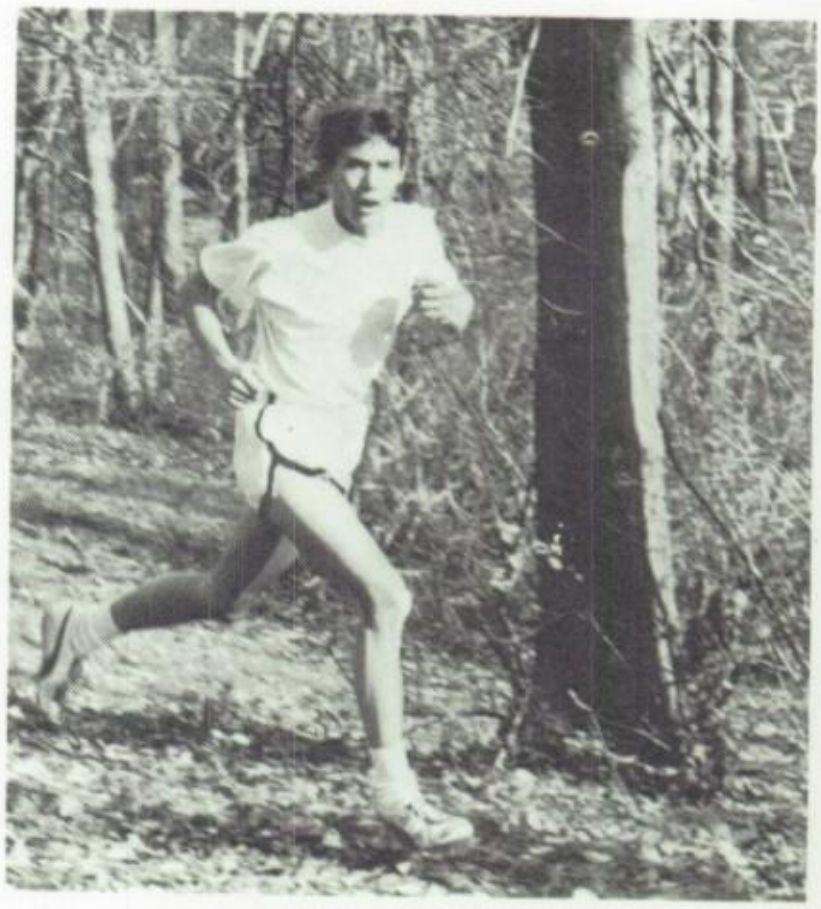
CROSS COUNTRY TRACK

This year's cross-country team was the most successful ver at Landon. There were no seniors this year, so everyne will be back next year in a bid for the IAC title. oached by Mr. Young, the team had a poor dual meet ecord, 2–3, because of a lack of pre-season training. The rst two meets were lost by 3 points altogether, 23–22 to eorgetown Prep, and 24–22 to St. Stephen's. St. Albans nd Bullis were beaten 16–39 and 19–35. The team ccumbed to powerful Sidwell, 18–40. In larger meets e team did better. In the A.U. Invitational the team aced 7th out of 15 teams, and in the St. Albans Invitaonal, 4th out of 10 teams. In the I.A.C. finals held at attery-kemble Park ––



Landon gained revenge over Georgetown Prep by finishing third behind Sidwell and St. Stephens. Landon was led by 4, 11, and 13 place finishes by McDermott, Gosnell, and Murphy. Evenson, MacMartin, and Smoot were the other three varsity men for Landon. The J.V. record was a 4-1, narrowly losing to Sidwell. The top J.V. runners, Gill, Marsh, Veith, Craig, and Payne won their meets by placing consistently together. They finished second in the I.A.C. behind Sidwell, led by 4, 5, and 7 place finishes by Marsh, Veith, and Craig.

BASEBALL

Take one strong, veteran defense. Add a trio of unbeatable pitchers, and an experienced coaching staff. Mix. Pour in powerful hitting and aggressive base running. The New York Mets? NO! It's Mr. Sundt's Varsity Baseball Team, which breezed through its season with an 11-2 record in a tough league.

Captain Jack Leachman led all batters and pitchers; freshman Tom Hamilton, like Leachman, hurled a no-hitter and a one-hitter; and Tom Tamm, the third starter, raised his two-year record to 6-1, clinching the IAC Championship with a 6-0 shutout of St. Albans. The infield of Hurd, Adkins, Korengold, Leachman, and Barter batted .320 as a unit; and the outfield of Lane, Crilley, Smith, and Gordon played alert defense.

The 1969 Varsity Track team enjoyed the most successful season in many years. Although the team lost its opening meet with Sidwell and Episcopal, Landon's distance runners proved to be a bright spot in the dismal day. Dan McDermott and Mike McAndrews set school records in the two mile and one mile runs respectively. The season brightened with a 73- 3 victory over Georgetown Prep two days later. scopal hosted the Cro.. don placed seventh in week, Landon was et with St. Albans a· zer in the triple i· ump, and Mike team to a victory, eac.. ord in his event. Landon al meet of the season against gh the team was soundly defeated 1/2 45 1/2, new records were set by Van Ness with a vault of 9' 6", and McDermott with a mile time of 4:46.5.

TENNIS

The 1969 tennis team once again captured the I. A. C. championship, remaining undefeated and unscored upon in league play. A high degree of motivation maintained the team's confidence after a loss to the Princeton freshmaen. The team finished the season losing only one more match, this time to the University of North Carolina freshmen.

At the conclusion of the regularly scheduled season, the team traveled to Rye, New York, to participate in, and ultimately win the Mansuring Island Interscholastic Tennis Tournament. Fred McNair placed first in the singles competition and then combined with his younger brother John to win the doubles.

The Baylor School in Chatanooga, Tenn., provided the season's climax when the team competed in the U. S. L. T. A. Interscholastic Championship Tournament. Fred McNair was at his best as he captured the number-one spot in the singles competition: however, despite the team's outstanding efforts, it placed second behind the Baylor School.

PROMETHEUS

Prometheus is Landon's answer to Phaeton's gilded sun chariot, visiting ten times in a decade, diffusing light amongst the cattle who wallow and wimble in its wake. Lacking golden, silver, or even green paper horses to pull it this year, Prometheus, Landon's literary magazine, nevertheless arrived on schedule, riding on the crest of its own genius.

St. Genesius's two most recent productions, Mister Roberts and Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead have both been smashing successes, as testified by the spirited after-parties to each. Headed by surfeit president Paul Griffith and supported ably by vice president Dave Burchmore, wrestler Jamie McEwan, technician Andy Starratt, stage director Bill Dupuy, and a host of other characters, St. Genesius lives.

We're a diversified company. A big one. Our sales will run more than half a billion dollars this year.

They'll come from computer service, education systems, helicopters, farm equipment, space systems, all kinds of technical services.

And airplanes.

Airplanes turn us on. We've built them for going on sixty years.

Our planes scored the nation's top kill ratios against Zeros and again against MiGs.

We've won the Thompson Trophy, the Collier Trophy, and the Doolittle Award.

Our chief exec is a reconstructed test pilot. We've got more fighter jockeys in management than any other company in the country.

Besides our attack airplanes, we're involved in the 747, S-3 and the DC-10 and the SST programs to the tune of hundreds of millions of dollars.

Our simulators are the finest in industry. So is our schedule performance. And our titanium capability. And our record of coming up with growth designs.

If you plan to become an Aeronautical, Electronic, Mechanical or Industrial Engineer, keep us in mind for your future.

"pick up a handful of pebbles"

(a legend)

One night in ancient times, three horsemen were riding across a desert. As they crossed the dry bed of a river, out of the darkness a voice called, "Halt!"

They obeyed. The voice then told them to dismount, pick up a handful of pebbles, put the pebbles in their pockets and remount.

The voice then said, "You have done as I commanded. Tomorrow at sun-up you will be both glad and sorry." Mystified, the horsemen rode on.

When the sun rose, they reached into their pockets and found that a miracle had happened. The pebbles had been transformed into diamonds, rubies, and other precious stones. They remembered the warning. They were both glad and sorry—glad they had taken some, and sorry they had not taken more.

"Glad they had taken some, and sorry they had not taken more." Isn't this the story of LIFE INSURANCE?

For you (whose eyes were open wide Whilst mine refused to see)
I'm sore in need of saving grace
Be kind and humor me.
I'm lost amidst a sea of wheat
Where people speak, but seldom meet.
And grief and laughter strange but true
Although they die, they seldom cry.
An ode by any other name
I know might read more sweet.
Perhaps the sun will never shine
Upon my field of wheat.
But still in closing let me say,
For those too sick to see,
Though nothing shows someone knows.
I wish that one was me.

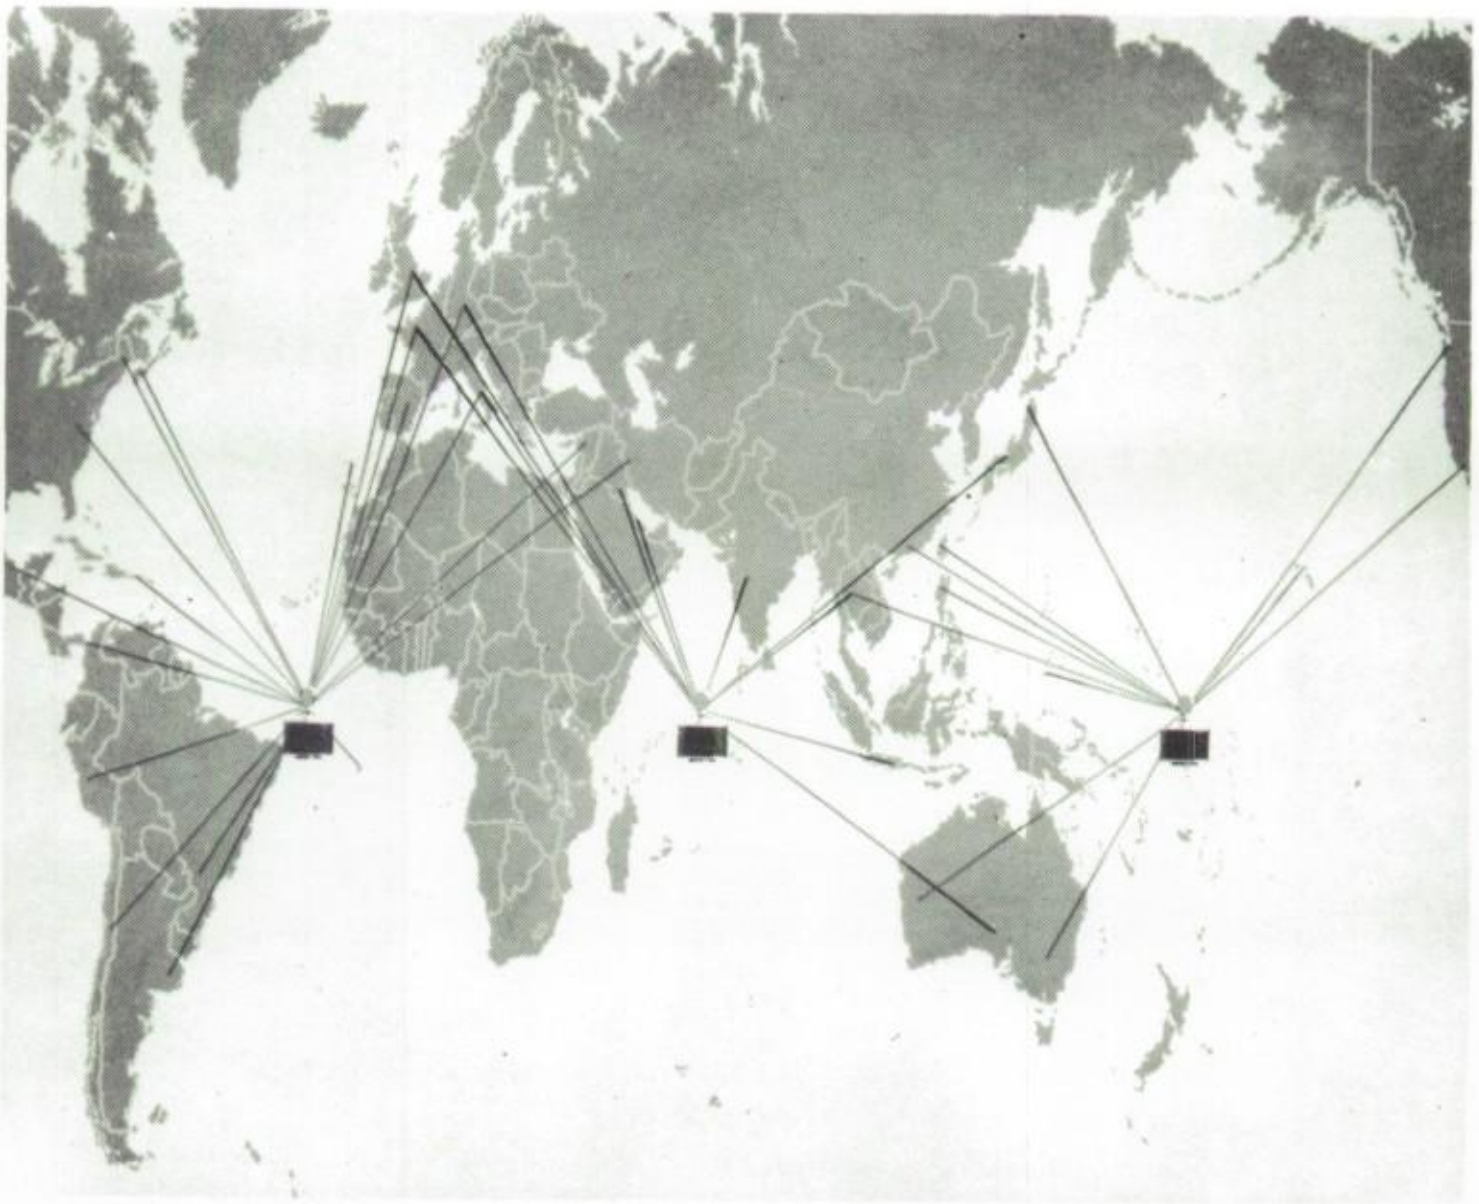
GLOBAL SYSTEM

FOR SATELLITE COMMUNICATIONS



A global system of (INTELSAT) International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium satellites link a growing number of earth stations in countries around the world . . . from 25 different countries early in 1970 to at least 40 of them by 1972. This is changing world communications patterns and potentials.

Some 70 countries have become members of INTELSAT since its founding in 1964. COMSAT represents the United States in INTELSAT, acts as manager for the consortium, and operates earth stations in the United States.

THE BEAR CLUB wishes to express its appreciation to the student body for its continued support throughout the school year. Without their backing we would not have been able to successfully aid the Brown & White, Prometheus, the Student Council Handbook, the Landon News, nor participate in and support other school functions. We hope we have been worthy of their support and respect and have succeeded in strengthening Landon in some small way.

'MOD' CIVILIAN IN CHARGE

D.C. Police Open To Recruit 1,150

By JOHN FIALKA
Star Staff Writer

The Metropolitan Police Department will open this week the largest recruiting drive in its history, hoping to find 1,150 men in one year.

The department's recruiting section will be almost doubled, increased from 46 to 90 recruiters, and moved from police headquarters to a new community base in the Penn Branch Shopping Center in Anacostia.

Efforts to recruit primarily from the city will be intensified. Community groups will be asked, to assist as recruiters and a new police entrance exam is being developed to remove doubts about racial bias which were raised by the old one, in use since 1942.

The author of these plans is the department's new personnel director, James M. Murray, 42, a man who sports a luxuriant handlebar mustache, writes plays in his spare time and does yoga exercises to relax.

A 'Super Bureaucrat'

Although Murray's "mod" image is somewhat startling in police circles, he has long had a reputation among city officials as a kind of "super bu-
